U.S. Orbits New Satellite To Test Recovery System

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The Air Force fired into orbit Friday the 26th Discoverer satellite-rocket, containing a 300-pound parcel of "space mail" destined for Hawaii.

Officials said tracking stations in Hawaii and Alaska confirmed the orbit. Discoverer XXVI is circling the earth in a north - south orbit approximately every 95 minutes, the Air Force said, at a maximum altitude of 50 miles and a minimum of 146 miles.

CONTENTS SECRET

Contents of the parcel were stamped "secret" by the Air Force, which is trying to perfect a way to return film and other records from Samos and Midas "spy" satellites.

The kettle-drum shaped capsule is in the nose of the 25-foot-long second stage of the 81-foot rocket, which roared into the sky at 4:30 p.m.

Recovery of the last capsule June 18 by parachuting skin divers flown to the impact area 300 miles short of the target prompted the Air Force to boast: "We know now we can get anything that comes back from other space."

The 2,450-pound Discoverer probably carries, in addition to the capsule, secret gear being tested for future photographic and missile-detection satellites.

One of these, M 6 III, carrying heat-sensitive devices capable of spotting a rocket's exhaust hundreds of miles below, is being readied for launch on a pad a few miles south of this West Coast missile base. Both it and Samos, the space camera, use the same second stage as Discoverers—the Lockheed Agena B.

Air Force scientists who sent the rocket thundering toward space into a clear blue sky at 7:29 p.m. EDT said they were shooting for recovery after a record of about 67 passes over the poles of the earth.

The satellite, weighing 2,100 pounds after all its fuel was burned up, made up the entire second stage of the 81-foot Discoverer rocket.

Soviets Veto British Plan For Kuwait

Security Council Unable To Agree On Crisis Action

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The Soviet Uion killed by veto Friday a British resolution urging the U. N. Security Council to guarantee the independence of Kuwait.

The veto was followed by defeat of a United Arab Republic resolution demanding immediate withdrawal of British troops from the oil rich desert sheikdom.

UNABLE TO AGREE

The 11-nation council thus wound up four days of debate unable to agree on any course of action to settle the dispute set off by Iraq's claim to Kuwait.

Soviet Delegate Platon D. Morozov cast the 95th veto by his country in the council to defeat the British resolution calling upon all states to respect Kuwait's independence and territorial integrity, and whenever the ruler of Kuwait considered the threat to his country's security ended.

The United States, Britain, France, Liberia, Turkey, China and Chile voted for the resolution. The United Arab Republic, Ecuador and Ceylon abstained. It won the required seven vote majority, but the lone negative vote by the Soviet Union constituted a big power veto that killed it.

Only the United Arab Republic, Ceylon and the Soviet Union voted for the U. A. R. resolution. All other council members abstained.

Obviously angered, British Delegate Sir Patrick Dean declared that "once again in the whole sorry course of the Soviet delega-

Detective Questions Delhi Pair

RAYVILLE (Special) — A private investigator hired by a suburban Alabama town to hunt down the ambush killer of its vice-tracking mayor, said here Friday, "I don't have any doubts that the murder will be cleared up soon."

He made the statement after questioning a Delhi couple charged with criminal abortion and narcotics violation who are former residents of the Mobile, Ala., area, near Saraland, Ala.

EXPECTS BREAK

B. M. Rikard, chief investigator of Allied Secret Service, said he expected a major break in the unsolved 1958 shotgun killing of Saraland's first mayor, O. L. Driver.

He talked with Clarence M. Scott, 41, and Scott's wife, Jean, 32, who are jailed at Rayville under $10,000 bond each.

Rikard said Scott and his wife "were cooperative", but would not say what line of questioning was followed, nor exactly why the pair were questioned about the case.

Of Scott, Rikard said, "He was a frequent visitor of the city of Saraland," then added pointedly "He wasn't a friend of the mayor."

Also planning to question Scott is the Mobile County sheriff's department, which is sending a deputy to Rayville soon.

Sheriff Earle Hill, who first broke the case against Scott, who along with his wife, was arrested in a raid at a Delhi office - home which the Scotts operated so as to appear to be only a chiropractic office, said he had been

Jonesboro's Economy Is Over Average

JONESBORO (Special) — The diversified economy of the Jonesboro - Hodge area belies the publicized but false image painted of north Louisiana as a "land of red clay hills and scrub pines."

The level of income and spending in Jonesboro is rated above most parts of the United States, according to a survey of buying power released by Sales Management, a thermometer of business vitality.

The 762-page survey, which includes Jonesboro, was released from New York. It was based on 1960 figures.

HIGH INDEX

Jonesboro's business index rating was 210, 110 per cent higher than the listed national average. The per-family effective buying income amounted to almost $5,000.

The effective buying power rating was described as the money remaining in the consumer's hands after the paying of all federal, state and local taxes.

The Jonesboro - Hodge - North Hodge combined population of more than 5,400, is supported by manufacturing, dairying, poultry products, truck farming, timber work, beef cattle raising and other enterprises.

In Jonesboro, local retail sales volume rose by $621,000 while many other areas of the nation were in the throes of recession.

Total retail sales hit $9,578,000, compared to $8,957,000 for the year before.

Locally, retail sales were greater than the income, showing that people came in from other areas to shop in the city, according to the survey.

Retail business locally should have amounted to .0021 per cent of the national on the basis of

Memphis Is Meet Site

All Mayors Join Ranks Over Idea

BATON ROUGE — Forty southern officials voted Friday to organize the south at a regional municipal conference at Memphis on August 11-12 with Mayor W. L. Howard as temporary chairman.

The Monroe Mayor and an executive committee were selected to steer the conference into session at a preliminary meeting attended by officials from 10 southern states.

"We'll leave no stone unturned to make this conference a success," Howard said.

The Executive Committee selected Memphis as the conference site with the Peabody Hotel as headquarters. The committee will meet in Memphis on August 10 to draft final plans.

FAMILY ILLNESS

Every state in the South was represented at the meeting with the exception of North Carolina. Mayor John R. Surrat of Winston - Salem, N.C. telegraphed Howard, saying he was unable to attend after his brother suffered a heart attack.

The delegates adopted a statement drafted by Monroe City Attorneys Haynes Harkey Jr. and Ford Pipes Jr., which said in effect the conference was called to organize a South-wide municipal association.

While the purposes of the conference were written in general language, the statement was clear in stating opposition to President Kennedy's Federal aid to education bill.

West Reply Completed On Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Big Four powers Friday completed the draft of their proposed answer to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's latest pronouncement on West Berlin.

Officials said the proposed joint reply will be sent to Paris, perhaps Saturday, for a final checkover by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization before being sent to Moscow, probably late next week.

Authoritative sources said the West stands firm on its rights in West Berlin but leaves the door open for further discussions with the Soviet Union on the cold war danger spot.

Judge Extends Order In Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A temporary restraining order which suspended the national maritime strike last Monday was extended by U. S. Dist. Judge Sylvester J. Ryan Friday until 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Judge Ryan thus delayed until next week a decision on a government motion for a preliminary injunction. An injunction would bring a full 80-day, cooling-off period under the Taft-Hartley law, and shipping would continue during that period while efforts were made to settle the dispute.

Ryan said he probably will not be able to file an opinion on the injunction motion before Tuesday afternoon.

SEVERAL INJURED

Storm Lightning Kills 4 Soldiers

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI) — Lightning bursting from a summer thunderstorm hit an Army rifle range Friday, killing four soldiers and injuring at least 16.

The victims apparently were racing for the shelter of a tree when the storm broke. Trucks, ambulances and helicopters sped them to Martin Army Hospital where four were pronounced dead on arrival.

Ft. Benning is the Army's major infantry center where infantrymen and paratroopers were trained for World War II and the Korean conflict.

ALL TRAINEES

A Army spokesman said those injured by the lightning bolt were "not too seriously" hurt.

Identities of the victims were withheld pending notification of the next of kin, but the Army said all the injured and dead were trainees in the second infantry division.

Six Wounded 20 Arrested In Disorders

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Dominican police opened fire Friday night on a surging antigovernment mob that marched through the streets with incendiary candles and burned down the studio of Radio Caribe.

The popular demonstration was unprecedented in the 31-year Trujillo political dynasty.

Six persons were known to have been wounded and some 20 arrests were made.

MARCH ON PALACE

The thousands of free-roaming demonstrators first marched on the national palace, where they were turned back at the gates.

One marcher climbed the flagpole at the Palace of Justice, hauled down the Dominican flag and replaced it with the red and black flag of the leftist Popular Dominican Movement — MPD, whose leader admires Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The mob then attacked the Radio Caribe studio with stones, sloshed gasoline around on the inside and set it afire.

Police opened fire when the invaders threw stones at the police.

The demonstrators then marched back in orderly fashion to Colon (Columbus) Park, where they started their rally, under the watchful eye of police.

Despite the efforts of a large crew of fire fighters, the radio studio was destroyed and it went off the air.

The manager, Elias Arbaje Ramirez, estimated the damage at $800,000.

Radio Caribe, adjoining the palatial headquarters of the ruling Dominican party, supports the government of President Joaquin Balaguer. Before a recent management shakeup it was regarded as anti-Catholic and often attacked the United States. Most

Downtown Promotion Scheduled

The Greater Monroe Downtown Association will meet with every downtown businessman and property owner, in a large-scale promotion plan to bring the association up to 100 per cent strength.

With $15,000 in the treasury, the association is aiming at a $20,000 goal, as minimum budget needed to promote the "Greater Monroe Downtown" program.

"ELATED"

Chairman George Rorex, presiding at the association's breakfast meeting Friday at the Penn Hotel, said that the board and steering committees are "elated over progress" made during the group's first four months of existance.

Steering committee officials said that the association's first promotion, the "Million Dollar Clearance Sale" held this week, is a "huge success."

"This is a clear indication of the value of a joint cooperative effort by downtown business firms," they said.

Merchants, financial institutions and 36 other categories are members.

Two meetings are schedule to increase the membership:

America Given Warning

"Student of the science of war," was how Major Alexander P. de Seversky modestly summed himself up. In this phrase he discounted countless noteworthy and influential contributions to aviation, his numerous decorations and awards won for meritorious service to mankind in both war and peace, his high accuracy as prophet of the course of air power, and his courageous criticisms of whatever he regarded as menaces to the security of his beloved adopted country, the U.S.A.

De Seversky, son of a Russian pioneer aviator, was educated at the Imperial Russian Naval Academy. The first of his many notable inventions were made while he was serving in the Russian flying corps, in which he lost a leg. When the Russian Revolution brought collapse of that country's armed services, De Seversky was in Washington as a member of a Russian naval mission. He offered his services to the U.S.A., and remained in the country as a test pilot, equipment inspector, designer.

He became a close associate of Maj. Gen. Billy Mitchell in the latter's postwar demonstrations of plane vs. battleship that produced a ruckus between the armed services and brought about Mitchell's martyrdom.

MAJ. ALEXANDER DE SEVERSKY

De Seversky had contributed importantly by designing an automatic bomb-sight, for which he was paid $50,000 by the U. S government. He promptly put the money into a new company that was formed to take advantage of his talents as engineer and designer. The company was an important developer and supplier of military and naval aircraft before its merger with Republic Aviation Corp. De Seversky planes set many records. Meanwhile, he had become a U. S. citizen and married an American.

As war engulfed Europe in 1939-40, De Seversky became alarmed by the backwardness of the U.S.A. in aircraft development. Having resigned from Republic Aviation Corp., to concentrate on research and invention, he threw himself into a crusade to get the primacy of airpower in modern warfare recognized.

He wrote for magazines, he made countless lectures, he concentrated his message in a book, "Victory Through Airpower," that was to be a bestseller and stir a furor—and action by the public.

After the U. S. A. had emerged undefeated in two simultaneous wars — the one in Europe and the one in the Pacific — De Seversky was presented with the In-

AT OUACHITA FAIR

Junior Show Open To Other Parishes

A greatly expanded Ouachita Valley Fair in West Monroe this fall is expected to have junior livestock entries from at least seven parishes, it was announced yesterday by fair secretary manager John Birdsong.

Birdsong said that by the following year the list of junior entries is expected to take in at least 10 parishes.

The announcement came in the shadow of a continuing trend in many areas to cut out parish fairs because of lack of state financial backing.

Birdsong said that the primary purpose of the new plan which will be carried out at the exposition scheduled October 9-14, is to provide an opportunity for 4-H'ers and Future Farmers of America members to show their animals.

"It also will bring many people to the Twin Cities area," he said. "We appreciate people coming in and trading with us."

At meetings held over the past several days the expanded junior livestock show plan has received support from the Chambers of Commerce in Monroe and West Monroe, a number of local business men, area county agents and the Louisiana Agricultural Extension Service.

Parishes represented at the meetings were Jackson, Lincoln, Ouachita, Union, Morehouse, West Carroll, Richland, Franklin, Catahoula and Concordia.

The fair will be operated with financing from the Ouachita Valley Fair Association. There will be no funds from the state, Birdsong said.

Agents in seven parishes have relayed pledges totalling at least 300 head of animals in the junior livestock show.

The expanded junior show will eliminate the adult livestock show at the fair, the secretary - manager said.

However, there still will be local horticultural displays and ex-

ed as Louisiana's members on the executive committee, both emphasized that the conference should be "positive with a progressive approach."

But Mayor Allen Thompson, of Jackson, Miss., was plain in saying the conference could offset the Federal Government's integration movements.

"Let's face it, people, unless we stand together, in the South we are going to lose all of our rights," Thompson said.

Thompson, Mayor J. W. Morgan of Birmingham, Ala., and Mayor Earl James of Montgomery, Ala., encouraged the delegates to select a "neutral" site for the conference.

"I don't think it would be a good idea to have it where we have had trouble," Morgan said. "We appreciate the fact that this movement originated in Monroe."

The Executive Committee was empowered to determine the eligibility of delegates at the first South-wide conference, in addition to drafting a program for the session.

Howard urged the southern officials to write their views to him before the committee meets at Memphis on August 10.

Thompson told Howard committeemen could confer prior to that on the telephone.

Besides the Louisiana committeemen, named to the executive committee were the following:

Mayor J. W. Oakley Sr., Centerville, Ala., Mayor Chris B. Heinz, Selman, Ala., Mayor Harold Price, West Memphis Ark. Mayor John Harsh, Magnolia, Ark., Mayor Troy Watkins, Natchez, Miss., Mayor Thompson, Mayor L. J. Box, Marshall, Tex., Mayor L. A. Robinson, Texas City, Tex.; Mayor Tom Hall, Millington, Tenn., Mayor David H. McLeod, Florence, S.C., and Mayor J. Palmer Gaillard Jr. Charleston, S.C.

Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina and Virginia will name their committeemen after the delegates return home with reports to their colleagues.

Fred C. Ray, assistant to the city manager, of Norfolk, Va., represented the city most distant from Baton Rouge at the meeting.

But Florida had two delegates —Mayor Pro-tem John Newsom, Orlando, and city commissioner George S. Taff, Tallahassee.

Besides Birmingham, the two biggest towns represented were New Orleans by acting Mayor Victor Schiro and Memphis by City Commissioner William Farris.

A great deal of discussion was devoted to the eligibility of delegates to the conference.

But Thompson said he thought the small towns and cities should be encouraged to join.

"If the big cities don't want to come in, then let them stay out," he said.

Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor of Birmingham warned, "the worst thing we can do is let outsiders get into this organization for money purposes. That almighty dollar means a lot."

Discussing the idea of an educational program, Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez of Monroe said much of the South's progress had never been told to the rest of the country.

"It'll take money," Thompson said. "Jackson has got plenty of money. I put a tax on the other day to raise $500,000 to combat what I call NAACP agitators."

Once he referred to the American Municipal Association as a "pussy-footing operation." But Christian, and AMA board member, later said, "I beg to differ."

The delegates attempted to draft the structure of the conference, but so many ideas were tossed out it became apparent the job was too big for the time they had.

At this point Mayor Johnny Holand of Vicksburg, Miss., suggested that an executive committee be established to take care of the conference program and arrangements.

Mayor J. Allan Norris of West Monroe seconded his motion.

Meantime, Holland nominated Howard as temporary chairman, but there were no other nominations.

Besides Memphis, cities making a bid for the conference site were Baton Rouge, Norfolk, Va. and Biloxi, Miss. Memphis was the choice of all the committeemen except Thompson, who voted to have it at Biloxi.

At the outside of the meeting, Mayor Charles Cassidy of Bogalusa, president of the sponsoring Louisiana Municipal Association presided.

However, he turned the session over to the LMA's three - man committee that called the preliminary conference by inviting the southern officials.

Fant, delivering the keynote address, said:

"The South has changed since World War II. We have become centralized and commercialized. The South has great potential. Unfortunately, it is hard at times to get this picture before the rest of the United States."

Fant later said, "A southern conference of mayors and municipal officials is essential. But the conference should be a just and progressive program — a positive program."

Arriving late, Thompson arose to say:

"I don't know how you people feel, but I'm going to tell you how I feel. This is the most important meeting for the south in 100 years."

Later he added, referring to the integration issue and the "freedom riders" in Jackson, "If you don't think it'll hit you, you're wrong. It did me."

A past president of the AMA, Thompson charged that the mayors of the western and eastern big cities werre interested in one thing — "the minority bloc vote."

He said a southern organization of municipal officials could become "almost as powerful as the NAACP."

Howard, Rodriguez and the Monroe city council were recognized by the delegates for lunching and conference move, which later won the approval of the LMA executive board.

Delegates attending the meeting follow by states:

Louisiana — Mayor O. N. Wilds, St. Joseph, Mayor Louis Pries, Waterproof.

Alabama — Commissioner Connor, Birmingham, Mayor Morgan, Birmingham, Mayor R. B. Searcy, Huntsville, Mayor Oakley, Centreveille, Mayor James Montgomery, and Mayor Heinze, Selma.

Florida — Mayor pro-tem Newsom, Orlando, City Commissioner George S. Taff, Tallahassee.

South Carolina — Mayor McLeod, Florence, Mayor Gaillard, Charleston.

Tennessee — Mayor Hall, Millington, Commissioner Farris, Memphis, James C. Wood, director of convention bureau, Memphis.

Georgia — Mayor pro-tem A. B. Mulcay Jr., Augusta, Ga.

Virginia — Mayor Julian R. Stinson, Danville, F. C. Ray, assistant city manager, Norfolk.

Mayors Adopt Statement

BATON ROUGE (Staff Special) — Here is the statement adopted Friday by a steering committee of southern municipal officials who voted to organize a south-wide municipal association:

"Problems confronting the South have brought us together today. Some of them are acute, others more remote — all are common to the people who live in the municipalities of the south. None of them, we trust, are without solution if we approach them in the right way.

"The greatest concentration of our population is in our cities. Yet the most difficult problem facing us all is to make the attitudes and opinions of our people felt on a national level.

"Because of this difficulty, we who are charged with the responsibility of government on a local level find ourselves being swept along on the tide — often times in a direction in which our people do not wish to go — and with less and less control over our destination. The spectre of federal aid to education and the inevitable result of federal control of education is but one area in which the attitudes and thinking of our people is not being expressed.

"We feel a South-wide conference of municipal officials may be the answer. Its purpose will not be to supplant any other municipal organization. It will not be designed to become a negative influence. It will, however, do these things:

"1. Provide the framework in which our common problems may be discussed and solutions found.

"2. Provide the framework in which the attitudes and thinking of the people in the municipalities of the South may be made known to our representatives in Congress.

"3. Provide the framework in which the trend towards centralization of government may be stemmed and even reversed.

"4. Provide the framework in which the rest of the United States will be made aware of our accomplishments as well as our shortcoming.

"5. And provide the framework in which a positive program of progress may be chartered for all of the people of the South."

population; it exceeded that quota however, producing .004 per cent of the total, the survey noted.

Jonesboro has been described as "one of the fastest growing towns in the country."

It is situated in an expanding center of activity, has a population of 3,848, lies about a mile south of Hodge (878) and a little farther from North Hodge (680).

The town of Quitman is six miles away. Jonesboro is the seat of Jackson Parish, which has within its bounds 578 square miles and 15,791 people.

Approximately 1,900 persons are employed in papermill and woodlands work on the payroll of Continental Can Corporation Paper Co. of Hodge.

At nearby Quitman, Sam Thomas Sta-Pine Co., manufactures household cleaning and disinfectant products. Several hatcheries are located in the parish, in addition to a slaughter house, locker plant for storage of foods, several dairies, tree nurseries, truck farms, two sawmills, four private clinics, modern school and communications enterprises.

At Jonesboro, Jonesboro Hospital, a charity institution is located, plus a modern health unit. A new $800,000 Jackson Parish General Hospital is under construction.

Recreational needs of the population are filled by a number of diversionary activities and establishments.

A new recreation center building is located here. There are two movie places, picnic spots, a new bowling alley, and a skating rink. Also nearby are a deer preserve and good hunting areas.

The area boosts churches of almost every denomination.

hibits of foods, clothing and other items in the women's division.

Birdsong said the fair probably will invite exhibits, mostly junior, from other parishes in such crops as corn, potatoes, soybeans and other major items.

In the past, the Ouachita Valley Fair concentrated its junior livestock show on parish entries, while taking entries from many other areas in the adult livestock show.

Show officials pointed out that they are interested in "giving the youngsters a chance to show their animals." They said it often is difficult for youngsters to get entries in the state fair, and the increasing scarcity of parish fairs is decreasing their chances of exhibiting livestock.

The fair will provide premium money for winners in the junior show, which will be climaxed with a junior livestock auction. This will offer them a better than average opportunity to get good prices for their animals.

Eichmann Asks For Mercy

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann admitted under blistering cross-examination Friday he felt himself guilty as an accomplice in the Nazi slaughter of six million Jews.

But in a plea for mercy, with the death penalty hanging over him, the former Gestapo colonel ended 14 days of direct testimony earlier in the session by declaring: "I was a tool in the hands of the strong and powerful, and in the hands of fate itself, which shows no mercy."

Prosecutor Gideon Hausner launched his direct questioning of the defendant, charged with criminal responsibility in the World War II programs, after the defense concluded its case.

Grasping both lapels of his black prosecutor's robe, Hausner turned to Eichmann and demanded: "In your own heart, do you find yourself guilty as an accomplice to the murder of millions of Jews? Yes or no?"

Rising to standing position in his glassed-in prisoner's dock, Eichmann answers: "Yes, from the human point of view, because I was guilty in carrying out the implementation of orders for the deportations."

Eichmann insisted, however, that he does not consider himself guilty from a legal point of view.

"I was only receiving and carrying out orders. Without responsibility, there can be no guilt," he said.

"I was never an anti-Semite," Eichmann declared. "I was a very tough nationalist. I have never disputed that."

Hausner referred to a 1942 letter signed by Eichmann mocking Jews in Iran for "attempting to camouflage—a Jewish trick."

"I never drafted the letter," Eichmann said. "I signed it but it was customary to receive ready made texts from various departments. I regarded Jews as opponents, but not as opponents who must be exterminated. I was seeking a mutually fair solution to put soil under their feet. I was working toward this solution joyfully."

The reply brought murmurs and laughter from the spectators, many of them survivors of the Nazi death camps.

Presiding Justice Moshe Landau rapped sharply and ordered: "There must be no reaction from the audience to this testimony."

Hausner referred to death sentences meted out to such Nazi leaders as Hermann Goering at Nuernberg for the part they played in killing Jews and asked: "Do you believe these sentences were just?"

"Yes," said Eichmann.

WEST BERLIN CRISIS

Kennedy, Aides To Confer Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Friday called top advisers to a weekend conference on Berlin as the Western Allies neared completion of their reply to Moscow on the cold war danger spot.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, presidential military adviser, will fly to Kennedy's Hyannis Port, Mass. home Saturday for a conference with Kennedy who is weekending there.

The meeting is expected to last for several hours and deal with broad strategy questions in connection with the mounting German crisis.

Salinger said the meeting will not be of an "emergency type" and will not deal specifically with the U. S. reply to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's note outlining his intentions on Berlin.

The diplomatic note is in final stages of preparation and is expected to be sent to the Kremlin late next week.

Rusk met with ambassadorial representatives from Britain, France, and West Germany late Friday afternoon to wrap up a final answer. The document was then to be hurried to Paris for a check over by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization members before being sent to Moscow.

The U. S. note is responding to a memorandum handed over by the Soviet Union during the June 3-4 Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting in Vienna.

Khrushchev says the Soviet Union will sign a peace treaty with East Germany at the end of this year. By this, he said he means to turn over to the Communist East German regime controls over West Berlin and access to the Red-encircled city.

East German leaders from party boss Walter Ulbricht down have been declaring their intent to shut down Berlin activities which the Western powers contend cannot be tampered with because of their postwar occupation rights.

It was reported the Western Allies are in a high degree of unity in fashioning the reply to the Soviet Union.

Informants said the U. S. note would stand firm against yielding of Western rights to Berlin to any one-sided Soviet Action.

Reds Tighten Curbs On West Berlin Workers

BERLIN (AP)—East Berlin's Communist rulers acted Friday against two Western attractions still within reach of their citizens — well-paying jobs and anti-Communist radio programs.

Mayor Friedrich Ebert's East Berlin government warned 50,000 East Beliners who work in the West that they must obey Communist law. They are required to register their place of work with Communist authorities.

Hoffa's World Dreams

For some years it has been generally reported that James R. Hoffa, who succeeded the notorious Dave Beck as head of the International Teamsters Union, has had ambitions to rule labor, and therefore everybody else, throughout the world. His ambitions run somewhat parallel with those of Premier Nikita Khrushchev of Russia.

If any proof were lacking that the ambitions of Hoffa ran along these lines, he has supplied it in bountiful style.

In announcing his intention to take over absolute control of the giant Teamsters Union and to invade the field of other unions by setting up rival Teamster-backed unions wherever possible, Hoffa blatantly proclaimed, "You ain't seen nothin' yet." He let it be known that his ambitions do not stop with complete control of unions in the United States but contemplate taking over those of other countries.

In addition to mapping plans for a far-ranging drive into industries already occupied by other unions, Hoffa began setting the stage for naming criminals and mobsters as his chief lieutenants. He is deleting from the Teamsters constitution a provision that members convicted of crime can be ousted, or that convicted racketeers must be expelled. It is well known that Hoffa has always worked with racketeers and that he organized, with their help, phony labor unions which enabled him to gain election in the first place.

Federal law now prevents some persons convicted of certain crimes from holding office in unions but it is clear that Hoffa intends to use the criminals to the utmost limits that are permitted.

Here are some of the convention changes set up by the former warehouse boy who never finished grammar school:

Virtually all top Teamsters aides would have to do Hoffa's bidding or forfeit their jobs or general expense allowances.

No rank and file member could run for office. Candidates must first have served in local union offices, over which Hoffa will exercise strong control.

The union will be authorized to provide legal defense funds for Teamsters charged with law violations. This indicates Hoffa expects law violations on the part of his lieutenants and that he wants to enable them to escape justice when such crimes are committed.

Hoffa would be given up to $20 million a year to spend and unlimited power to hire organizers and directors to ride herd over the area Teamster affairs. Presumably this would give him free rein to appropriate whatever sums he chose for his own use, as he has been accused of doing previously with union funds.

Local unions also could specifically keep their money in non-interests bearing bank accounts — a matter that stirred up considerable criticism of Hoffa in connection with an Orlando, Fla., land deal in which he is presently under indictment for land fraud.

Hoffa told the Teamster convention that he plans to set up lobbying organizations in Washington "second to none" and build up Teamster politics to oust "those pot-bellied, slick individuals who represent the employers in congress." (If we no longer have employers, where will the employes work?)

One thing that lends some hope of stopping Hoffa is the announcement by Attorney General Robert Kennedy that he plans searching investigations of Hoffa's top lieutenants. There is every indication that the heat on some of these men will be so strong that their writhings will interfere with their efforts to serve Hoffa. It could mean not only that Hoffa will be deprived of the services of gangsters, which he seems to want so badly. but that some of these hoodlums may be squeezed into revealing activities that might land Hoffa behind bars, since he has already faced several indictments.

Kennedy's methods have sometimes been compared to those of Hoffa, but if he, with the power of the F.B.I. and the government behind him, can crush Hoffa and his world-dominating ambitions, it will be a good accomplishment.

What Is Your Price?

If several electric firms make identical bids on equipment, they are charged with violating anti-trust laws. If some of them bid lower than others they are engaging in unfair trade. Every firm needs a Philadelphia lawyer to tell it at just what price it can sell without violating the law. Our government demands two diametrically opposed things at the same time—competing and not competing.

The electric companies were convicted of price-fixing and making collusive identical bids. This was the Philadelphia criminal case.

Now, in settlement of civil actions, of which there are 17 against General Electric alone, the anti-trust division of the justice department wants all the companies involved to sign a consent decree. Only one small company has signed this decree, the heart of which is an agreement not to sell at "unreasonably low prices."

How can companies compete if they are under orders not to sell at low prices. The firms are under orders to do things and not to do them at the same time. The companies can't sell either at high prices or low prices and they have no way of telling what the government considers a reasonable price. What is reasonable one day might not be reasonable the next.

Senator Hruska, R., Neb., a member of the anti-trust and monopoly committee, summed it us thus:

"Here we have a situation in which we have one of our branches of government in this room saying: " 'Why don't you reduce prices? Why don't you get them lower?' "And then we have another branch of the government saying to you in the form of a court order or asking that you put into a court order:

" 'We will not sell for lower prices, unreasonably low prices.' "

The senator pointed out that the law bars "pirating," whereby a company constantly reduces prices until it forces a competitor out of business. The anti-trust law requires competition, and the Robinsonson-Patman act bans charging different prices. The anti-trust lawyers want a consent decree saying General Electric and Westinghouse or any of the electric companies cannot sell for unreasonably low prices.

It is inconceivable that any conglomeration of laws could be more conflicting and confusing.

Hruska asked:

"What kind of a rat race is this that we are going to go all over the lot and everyone of us in the government is going to go a different direction.

The wording of the decree, as proposed by the anti-trust lawyers, who probably were acting on orders of higher-ups and had no idea of what was wanted, is so vague as to what are "unreasonably low prices" that every time there is a question of pricing an item, whether an electric condenser or an egg-beater, a lawyer will have to be called in to admonish both the seller and the buyer on the likelihood of selling either too high or too low.

The general effect of the proposed ruling would be to put prices up to the level of the most inefficient producer. If extended to other lines, it would wreck the American system of merchandising.

The job of the anti-trust division is to see that we have competition and that it is fair. Price regulation is contrary to the American tradition of free enterprise.

Bluffing, Or Just Plain Crazy?

Overall Military Posture

Best Picture Is Given Each Year When Rep. George H. Mahon Of Texas Gives House Annual Report

The best insight that can be obtained into the state of this nation's overall military posture is to be presented in the House of Representatives in June of each year when Representative George H. Mahon of Texas lays the military appropriations bill before that body.

When the 61-year old Texan, who has been a member of Congress for 23 years, goes to the well of the House for his explanation of the appropriations, his colleagues know that he has held hearings over a period of six months, many long hours each day of that time, that testimony has been taken from hundreds of witnesses, then that there have been many hours of careful deliberation before the bill was marked up.

This year there were 4,429 pages of testimony and there would have been many more than that but for the fact that much of it was classified as secret and could not be printed.

Mahon became Chairman of the Armed Service Subcommittee in January of 1949. Louis A. Johnson had just succeeded James V. Forrestal as Secretary of Defense. Since then the office of Secretary of Defense has also been filled by George C. Marshall, Robert A. Lovett, Charles E. Wilson, Neil H. McElroy, Thomas S. Gates and Robert S. McNamara.

Every dollar furnished to these Secretaries of Defense have had to go through Mahon's committee. He is as able a man as any of the Secretaries were, much superior in ability to some of them. He has had continuity in his powerful position when Secretaries of Defense were coming and going. Many officials think Mahon is the ablest member of the House of Representatives.

For two years after the Eisenhower Administration first came in, Congress was Republican and Mahon reverted to ranking Democratic member. In the 12 years he has been chairman the appropriations for the military establishment have aggregated the unbelievable amount of $350,181,433,609 and there is $42,711,105,000 in the present bill, which would bring the total to $392,892,540,609.

Add the amounts appropriated when Mahon was ranking Democratic member and the total is $456,064,107,095, which it must be conceded, are a great many billions of dollars.

Each year Mahon, and members of his subcommittee to whom he has assigned specific explanations, have told Congress and the country what the money is expected to do. It is a non-partisan committee when it comes to writing up the bill. Mahon works closely with able Representative Gerald R. Ford, Jr., of Michigan, the ranking Republican member. He inspires the devotion of both Democrats and Republicans on his committee.

Mahon began his speech presenting the bill the other day by calling attention that it was a time of considerable soul searching in the House of Representatives. This Government had reached the point where it had no money. A taxpayer in the same predicament would know he had "insufficient funds" in his bank account to write checks to pay his bills.

So the day before the military affairs bill came before it the House had given the Administration authority to write an additional $13,000,000,000 in I.O.U.'s. It did this by raising the ceiling on the national debt.

Not all the red ink was attributable to military expenditures. Welfare and civilian spending has been increasing at a faster clip than military spending. But Mahon told the House: "We are passing on to other generations part of the cost of the defense program. That is not good. We ought to pay our own way from year to year except in periods of deep depression and war."

Of the defense appropriation bill itself, Mahon told his colleagues:

"If we are to stand strong and tall in the midst of the storm, we must be strong militarily. The defense appropriation bill provides for strength. It does not provide the basis for a backdown in Berlin; it provides the basis for firmness. If we had contemplated a policy of retreat in the world the Appropriations Committee could have reduced the bill by several billions of dollars. The purpose of this bill is to fight communism in the cold war, and to fight communism in hot war if this country is attacked."

In their explanation of the myriad features of the appropriation Bill, Mahon and his colleagues made a convincing case that if the program recommended in the measure is carried out this nation is competent to handle our world-wide responsibilities in either an all-out war or a limited type of military threat. Representative Ford summed it up this way:

"I do not think the solution to any military problems we have today is the acquisition of substantially more hardware beyond what we now have in our arsenal. Generally we have enough and will acquire more than these funds to adequately meet any foreseeable threat that is placed before us. Our greatest requirement today is to take this armed might and to utilize it with a policy of world-wide firmness. Hardware in and of itself will not solve our current problems. As a nation we need will; we need determination; we need leadership. If we get this will, this determination, and this leadership, we have all the hardware we need to maintain American prestige and leadership."

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Miserly Spouse

Man Can't Enjoy Life Because He Goes On Saving For Future

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: It's not really my health that bothers me but my happiness and emotions. What can I do about a husband who is actually miserly? We are very well off but have little to show for it. Except for a one-week vacation every year or two, we haven't traveled; our home could be more comfortably furnished; and I look as if I'm dressed in "handouts." Mink coat? Never even thought of owning one; but a new pair of shoes or dress once in a while isn't asking too much, is it?

The only reason I excuse him is that I love him and blame it all on his insecurity. He practically starved as a youngster, and I guess he is unconsciously afraid to be in that position again. The only reason I'm writing to you, Dr. Steincrohn, is that I admit that at last it is all making me very nervous. Will you discuss it? — Mrs. X.

Comment: You're not the only one! But, I know that doesn't make you feel better. Misery may love company but we suffer alone and it is a sort of suffering to have to go through what you are experiencing. To live in a land of plenty, and to be prevented from partaking freely (it's bad enough when you can't afford it) is to suffer needlessly.

I think I can explain your problem but I can't solve it. Chances are your husband is insecure; but sometimes there is another reason. Due to some perverseness of character or a twisted philosophy of life, many persons keep "putting off until tomorrow." As Epictetus said: "Too many live as if we were going to be here for 1,000 years." These unfortunate individuals — and often their unfortunate family members, suffer unnecessarily. "There's always time. There's always tomorrow."

I often wonder how blind such people must be to think this way in the kind of world we live in. You don't have to look to an international situation fraught with danger; you can be literally bumped off by a car as you cross the street or be obliterated by a fall from a ladder as you attempt to hang a picture.

If only, Mrs. X., I could get your husband to understand what I am saying, your problem would be solved overnight. If I could only convince him that he is mortal like the rest of us! But such people have a blind spot. They think they go on forever and so miss much of life's pleasures.

Yesterday I had my first meeting with Mr. Allan Gould, photographer — philosopher. He had come to snap some photographs of me for a magazine; having finished his job, we talked for hours. I may never see him again but he left a legacy of thought that should do your husband some good.

Among many other words of wisdom, he said: "Until people stop to consider, most believe that their unhappiness is caused by some things they have done. Don't you think that it is the other way around? That much of our disappointment in life is due to not having done what we might easily have done?"

How true. Life is filled with "if onlys" when it is too late to make changes or amends. But in so many situations, there is still time. If your husband doesn't wake up in time to his main fault: procrastination, his closing years will be sprinkled with so many bitter regrets for things he didn't do, that his life will end in failure and discontent. Tell him to think it over.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1776, Col. John Nixon read the Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia's Independence Square publicly for the first time.

In 1835, the Liberty Bell cracked as it rung during the funeral of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court John Marshall.

In 1839, John D. Rockefeller was born in Richford, N.Y.

A thought for today: Abraham Lincoln once observed, "There is no grievance that is a fit object of redress by mob law."

Tractor Fiasco

Attempt To Trade For Prisoners Absurd And Undignified

One tends to give the benefit of the doubt to those who seek to devote themselves to saving persons from imprisonment or death. However, it is often the case that persons of good-will become overenthusiastic about just causes. The attempt to exchange tractors for human beings was not only absurd but undignified. The device of having a committee of private citizens attempt to do what the government was ashamed to do, fooled nobody. Quite openly the Committee advertised that the President of the United States was behind the proposal. Negotiations between the United States and a foreign nation however are best conducted through proper channels.

Castro, of course, made monkeys of the Tractor Committee. He constantly changed the terms. He asked for more. His final proposal was so ridiculous that the Tractor Committee had to turn it down and go out of existence.

What is there to be learned from all this?

More and more it is becoming clear that there are too many volunteers and amateurs in the Kennedy Administration, too many anxious beavers who want to get into things. The President has much to learn from the Cuban fiasco which continues to be a fiasco.

Surely he has discovered by now that the Marine Corps can do a better commando job than the CIA. The redoubtable General Smedley Butler showed more ability any day of his service than the para-military amateurs in the CIA.

Secondly, the President must by now have discovered that an excellent technician does not necessarily have the breadth of view and the imagination to formulate policy. The fourth floor of the State Department represents, on the whole, considerable ability but insufficient maturity. It was the fourth floor of the State Department that made it possible for Castro to take possession of Cuba. It was there that the decision was made that Batista was a bad boy and Castro a good boy.

Thirdly, on the other hand, no President can do without trained experts. These men have the advantage of languages, of knowledge of the history and literature and the personalities of the countries with which they deal.

The distinction between a technician and a policy-maker, however, is very great. A President and a Secretary of State can and should utilize technicians where they fit, but policy should be made on a broader plane than the technicians are capable of grasping.

Finally, the uninformed, untrained amateur, whose heart is in the right place and who slobbers over every sentimental cause can be a menace. During World War I and immediately after, the manufacturer of plumbing, Charles R. Crane, a noble citizen, well-intentioned and kindly, set up an organization of wise men whom he sent to various countries on his private payroll to advise foreign governments in various ways. The Crane men were supposed to keep their connection secret, but such things do come out. I encountered some of them in China in those days and they proved to be a nuisance both to the American and Chinese officials. Some of them were men of enormous culture and some were highly experienced, but they had neither authority nor responsibility and therefore were meddlesome Nellys.

During the Russian Revolution in 1917, perhaps half a dozen Americans, some of distinction, represented the State Department, President Wilson privately, the American Red Cross, and George Creel's organization. Each man had different instructions. Each one vied with the other in attempting to be important. I recall that Leon Trotzky, who was worried that certain elements would kidnap the American Ambassador, David Frances, discussed this question with me. Trotzky had lived in the United States and knew our ways well. He could not understand, however, why the President kept these competing great men in Petrograd where they only created the impression of insistent confusion.

Apparently, we have had the same sort of thing in Cuba. The center of authority is lost in the encouragement of a number of diverse persons and agencies to get into the act. Each group of Cuban refugees in New York and Miami was dealing with some one else and the competition was so wild and open that Castro knew each secret even before it was born.

It is fortunate that the tractor business turned out to be a failure. Imagine, if it had succeeded, what Mao Tze-tung would have charged to free Americans he still holds prisoner!

Scientists Wrong Ones To Find Out Whether Russia Cheating

One of these days a man ought to get up early and look for something to be cheerful about with this Kennedy Administration. The President's back is well, his virus is cured, and — well, anything else?

With all those hot-shot, overpublicized demigods in the White House, you'd think that staff work would be next to infallible. But the President nominated a Washington politico and personal assistant, Frank Reeves, to be District of Columbia Commissioner, and a Senate committee found him to be a tax delinquent. The White House promptly announced that hereafter — oh, that open barn door and the empty stall!— checks would be made on the fiscal integrity of nominees.

You can call that a minor matter, but on June 28th Mr. Kennedy announced that he was appointing a panel of scientists to find out what capacity the Russians had of cheating on a nuclear bomb-testing ban that has been in being for almost three years. At his press conference, I asked the President if we didn't pretty well know whether or not the Reds had been testing, and he said we didn't.

Not only is it pretty late to start appointing committees, but this is a committee of scientists. As a class, scientists take pride in being cautious about making up their minds. They are notoriously woolly-minded on political matters and often rejoice in being citizens of the "world" rather than being cabined, cribbed, and confined by national loyalty. But if there ever was a subject where it would be wisdom to err on the side of suspicion and presupposition, and where a physicist could be forgiven if he were biased toward American nationalism, this is it. The day after Election Day was the time for JFK to start to inform himself about Soviet capabilities of sneak testing.

At the same press conference, the President began talking economic growthmanship and sounded like Dick Nixon for a while, but he soon bogged down amid roseate statistics which defy serious analysis. Before leaving for a holiday at Hyannisport, Mr. Kennedy signed a multimillion dollar bill to create something similar to the Russian Intourist — a centralized governmental agency, housed in the Commerce Department, to bring foreign travelers over here.

Further centralization showed up when Congress unwillingly accepted his plan to authoritarianize Federal Trade and Civil Aeronautics, although Congress was still resisting the collectivist farm bill.

Agriculture Secretary Freeman may be luckier than he thinks if he fails to get the commissarist authority over farmers. This kind of power in Labor Secretary Goldberg has already proved to have diminishing returns.

During the blizzards of Inaugural week last January, Goldberg moved right into the New York tugboat strike. By manipulating his prestige as a New Frontiersman, Goldberg brought an element of trust and good will (as I'm told by one of the participants of the conference) which ended the strike. It didn't, however, settle the central industrial issue of whether a company had a right to replace men with new machinery, or whether they must have the union's consent.

But in June, we had the maritime strike and Goldberg, who had been moving in and out of various collective bargaining disputes for six months, went to New York to get things settled. What he got was a rude stiff arm by the striking unions. The next thing you knew the Administration had to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act, that "slave law," as the Laborites used to call it.

Goldberg found that his power had dwindled as his glamour wore off. This may be the fate in store for JFK, who started his term so wonderfully, bore himself so royally and gave us all such hope.

Well, maybe, by rising before dawn and putting one's mind to it, cheerful omens could be conjured up. But about all we have to be hopeful about today is that this is a brave man with a sharp mind in the White House. When will he start to click?

Dairy Gradings Announced For Ouachita Parish

Dr. W. Carroll Summer, director of the parish health unit, announced Friday gradings on all dairies, milk producers and distributors located in Ouachita Parish.

Grades on each were determined by the health department, according to Dr. Summer, in accordance with the grade specifications of the state sanitary code.

The code requires the health officer to announce at least once every six months the grades of all milk and milk products produced, processed, sold or offered for sale within his jurisdiction and to issue grade certificates.

The report is broken into two sections, grade "A" pasteurized milk and grade "A" raw milk for pasteurization.

The pasteurized milk is that produced from grade "A" raw milk with an average bacterial count which does not exceed 100,000 per milliliter. This milk is processed in a plant meeting the requirements of the sanitary code and the average bacterial plate count on the pasteurized milk does not exceed 30,000 per milliliter.

The following plants in this parish are grade A: The Borden Company, Cloverleaf Dairy, and Louisiana Training Institute, all of Monroe.

Out - of - the parish plants, distributing milk in Ouachita parish, listed as Grade A are: Foremost, Green Bros. Dairy, Jersey Gold Creamery, Meadowgold Creamery, Midwest Dairy Products, and the Milk House.

Twenty dairies producing raw milk for pasteurization were also given grade "A" classing. This category includes raw milk which has been produced in conformity with the minimum requirements of the sanitary code and has a bacterial plant count of not over 100,000 per milliliter.

Included in this category were dairies operated by: J. Y. Barnes, H. C. Beavers, D. J. Brockner, W. S. Calloway, O. O. Cloyd, Otis Collie, L. W. Coon, R. R. Fuller, J. C. Hattaway, W. O. Hattaway M. L. Johnson, La. Training Institute, Irvin McDaniel, G. A. Murphrey, North La. Experiment Station, Fred Staples, M. A. Thompson, J. C. Watson and C. E. Worley.

All milk coming into Monroe from outside the parish for pasteurization is the same quality as that produced in this parish.

Chamber Group To Meet Today With Passman

Meeting with Fifth District Rep. Otto E. Passman today in discussion of a new post office building for West Monroe will be a delegation from that city's Chamber of Commerce.

Coming as an outgrowth of the group's earlier request to the Congressman to look into the feasibility of obtaining such a structure, the meeting is set for 10 a.m. in Passman's Monroe offices.

In a letter publicized yesterday replying to that request, Passman said, "he only type of post office buildings being built today are purely on a rental basis, with a purchase option."

He pointed out, "You are operating on a simnlar contract in West Monroe."

Passman also indicated that the present post office was occupied on a non-cancelable lease, with seven years of that lease remaining in force. In addition, the government has arrangements for two five-year renewal options.

A similar move to acquire a new post office bogged down in 1958.

West Monroe police are still investigating the accident.

Kuwait Leader Ready To Fight If Iraq Desires

KUWAIT (AP)—Kuwait's army commander in chief declared Friday Premier Abdul Karim Kassem of Iraq can have peace talks or a good stiff fight—whichever he wants.

Charging Kassem is continuing his military buildup, Brig. Sheik Mubarak al Jabar al Sabah told this correspondent: "We are ready for everything. If Kassem wants to fight we will fight; if he wants peace talks we will talk."

Behind Mubarak's defiance was a strong British force, called in six days ago when Iraq threatened to annex Kuwait, and what he termed promises of bountiful help from Saudi Arabia.

The last elements of Britain's 1st Battalion, King's Regiment—infantrymen from Kenya—arrived in Kuwait Friday. Defensive forces in Kuwait now number about 10,000. In addition, Mubarak said, "We are expecting more help from King Saud if the situation changes. Anything we need, Saudi Arabia will immediately send."

Saudi Arabia's contribution to Kuwait's defense has been estimated from 2,000 troops to around 200.

Dedication Of Home Slated

RUSTON (Special) — A second retired minister's home will be dedicated here Sunday on a plot of ground which may one day be the site of a 50,000 apartment building for retired church people.

A two bedroom home to be occupied by Rev. and Mrs. Dan Anders in the 1100 block of South Farmerville will be opened to the public from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Bishop Aubrey G. Walton, head of Louisiana Methodism, will perform the dedication rites. The home was built from funds donated by individuals and churches.

Nearby is a two-family apartment occupied by widows of two ministers. The land was supplied to the Retired Ministers' Homes Board by the Ruston Methodist Children's Home.

Rev. James B. Grambling of Shreveport has been chairman of the RMH since its establishment in 1953.

An apartment house to house ministers' widows, ministerial widowers and single retired ministers is planned. Estimated cost is $50,000. A total of $17,000 has been collected through a sale of "interest shares" at $10 a share.

Five retired minister homes are located at Pineville, Ruston and Shreveport.

Pharmacists Ask Nullification Of Man's Certificate

Members of the Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association Thursday night passed a resolution calling for the nullification of the registration of a White Castle man.

The Fifth District Pharmacists directed a resolution to the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association urging efforts to have the board of registration withdraw a certificate issued earlier to J. Bajon, of White Castle.

James C. Ussery, a Monroe pharmacist, earlier sent a telegram to Gov. Jimmie H. Davis urging him to fire the state board for qualifying Bajon, who Ussery contends was licensed to practice although he had never met legal requirements for certification.

The Fifth District group, in effect, agreed with Ussery's challenge of Bajon's qualifications but did not request the governor to fire the board.

The Monroe resolution will be delivered to a meeting of the statewide association Sunday in New Orleans where the Bajon case is scheduled for action.

A delegation from the fifth district will attend the New Orleans meeting.

A spokesman for the group meeting in Monroe Thursday night indicated that if efforts to have the state withdraw Bajon's license do not succeed, the matter may be taken to court. They contend that Bajon did not graduate from a pharmaceutical college before being licensed.

They also claim that state law requires that before a person can be licensed he must have been graduated from an approved pharmaceutical school.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

The Confederates lost their first two battles of consequence in July, 1861. With the defeats went whatever chances they had of holding the western counties of Virginia, soon to become West Virginia.

This territory, lying across communications lines between Washington and the West, was vital to both sides. Whichever side gained the upper hand would be in a position to harass the other. If the North held it, its communications to the rich Ohio valley and the vital Midwest via the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad were intact. Furthermore the backdoor route to tidewater Virginia and the heart of the Confederacy in Richmond could be opened if this territory could be occupied and held for staging a drive eastward against the southern armies in eastern Virginia. If the South controlled the area, the rail line could be cut and the door slammed against the Federals.

Both sides moved in early.

Eastward from Ohio came a Federal army commanded by Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan, whose star was rising.

McCLELLAN SCORES

By July, McClellan had achieved some small victories, forcing a small Confederate detachment out of Grafton, a railroad center, and routing it a few days later at Philippi, 15 miles to the south. Federal cavalry pursued the southerners to Beverly, where the stage road from Staunton joined the pike to Grafton. Beverly was the key. From there the Federals, all things being equal, could sweep into Staunton, in the Shenandoah Valley, and attack from the rear Gen. Joseph E. Johnston's Confederate force at the head of the valley around Winchester. That the Confederates could not risk. The Un on cavalry remained in Beverly only briefly. This gave Richmond time to throw troops into the breach.

The commander for this expeditions to save the western counties, Col. Robert S. Garnett, was selected from Gen. Robert E. Lee's staff. He was promoted to brigadier general and ordered to the area with reinforcements.

Garnett was 42, a West Pointer with a conspicious record in the Regular Army. When he was stationed at Ft. Simcoe in Washington Territory he came back from an expedition against the Indians and found his wife and children dead.

PREDICTS FAILURE

Mary Boykin Chesnut, who knew everyone of any distinction in the South and sized them up with a sharp pen, wrote of Garnett:

"He said not one word (after his family had died), but they (fellow officers) found him more frozen, stern and isolated than ever.

"The night before he left Richmond (to go to western Virginia) he said in his quiet way:

"They have not given me an adequate force. I can do nothing. They have sent me to my death!"

Garnett posted his 4,000 men into two positions; one under Lt. Col. John Pegram, a West Pointer, astride the Buckhannon Pass at Rich Mountain, the other, under his own command, on nearby Laurel Hill, blocking the road to Clarksburg. He seemed to have all contingencies covered.

McClellan moved his forces — three brigades — on Pegram's position July 9, but a reconnaissance developed the position was too strong to assault.

PEGRAM DEFEATED

On the 11th, guided by a young man who lived in the vicinity, Brig. Gen. W. S. Rosecrans led four Federal regiments and a troop of cavalry on a wide flanking movement to the south and struck part of Pegram's forces in the rear, surprising and routing them in a short engagement. That left Pegram's main body of troops with its retreat road cut off and the bulk of McClellan's forces in front. McClellan was supposed to attack Pegram at the sound of Rosecran's guns, but for some reason, never explained, he made only a demonstration.

Pegram began a retreat. Part of his forces excaped off the mountain by an obscure path, but on the 13th, cut off from Garnett and without supplies, he surrendered his last 500 men.

Garnett meantime was under attack on Laurel Hill. Learning of Pegram's disaster, he also started a retreat with the Federals close behind.

At Corrick's Ford on Cheat River, the 23rd Virginia Regiment delayed the Federals long enough for the wagon trains to cross.

GARNETT KILLED

At the next ford, Garnett personally superintended the crossing. Federals arrived before he could post skirmishers. Garnett turned his horse to look for the skirmishers and a Federal minie ball struck him in the back. The Unionists came up fast. As they arrived Garnett died, the first general of either side to be killed in the Civil War.

McClellan announced the victory to his wife in a letter, saying:

"Such is the fate of traitors: one of their leaders a prisoner, the other killed; their armies annihilated, their cause crushed in this region . . ."

To his army, McClellan proclaimed that it had "annihilated two armies commanded by educated and experienced soldiers, entrenched in mountain fastnesses fortified at their leisure."

The North was hungry for victory and took McClellan's announcement literally. He was the man of the hour. But his one-sided proclamation to the Army, his broadsides to the inhabitants written in the Napoleonic manner, his obsession for overestimating the strength of the enemy, his inability to make a decision and see it through, his lack of coordination in fighting his army as a unit — all demonstrated in this small campaign—foreshadowed his lack of success later in a larger field.

All of that escaped attention at the time. The next week, when the main Federal army was routed at Bull Run, it was McClellan who was called to Washington to repair the damage.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Sen. Adcock Hits Highway Department

ta Parish Police Jury, was called by the highways and street committee of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

Rep. Lawrence Gibbs pledged his support to the widening of Highway 80, a long-time project and Rep. Mike John said, "I can assure you I am aware of the local needs."

District Highway Engineer J. Ellis Ross, in commenting on the proposed widening, said that his office here has had no word on it from Baton Rouge officials.

He said it seemed the new D'Arbonne Bridge has priority in this area.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Gene Smith of West Monroe, and the chairman of his highways and streets committee Jack Russell, both explained that the meeting had been called to discuss needed improvements and to enlist the help of those present if possible.

In addition to the widening of Highway 80, other projects discussed were the widening of North Seventh Street from Natchitoches to the Arkansas Road; elevation of part of the Jonesboro Road to prevent the annual flooding; widening of Trenton and Arkansas Road to Drew School; possibility of installing signal lights at railroad crossings, and especially at the La. 617 route crossing, usually referred to as Jewel Street, and the erection of distance signs on the highways, showing how close the driver is to West Monroe

PROMISED

It was brought out in discussion that the elevation of the Jonesboro Road had been promised by Baton Rouge officials.

"That was one of the first things Gov. Davis said he planned to do when he got in office," Adcock said.

"You mean everything that is promised doesn't necessarily happen?" inquired ward five Juror Leslie Hamm.

Gibbs answered this by saying, "There's a heck of a lot that doesn't come about."

During the discussion on signal lights at rail crossings it was brought out that about eight people have been killed at Jewel Street in the past few years.

COST NOTED

Smith explained that Illinois Central Railroad has agreed to pay 10 per cent of the costs of signal lights. He said the state will not pay the remainder, but will pay 50 per cent.

He inquired about a law compelling such lights and was told by Gibbs that this has come up "plenty of times without success."

Gibbs and John, however, agreed to bring it up in the legislature again, specifying that it was needed for the La. 617 crossing.

Ross agreed to erect some distance signs on the highway, indicating mileage to West Monroe.

Adcock, John and Gibbs agreed to get together next week to further discuss the projects outlined yesterday, and see what action can be taken.

Smith promised that his committee would itemize the matters discussed and turn the list over to the solons for further work.

Smith and Russell thanked the delegation for its attendance and pledged that "The West Monroe Chamber of Commerce is 100 per cent for those things which are to the best interests of the area."

It was only one of numerous decorations and awards. De Severky went on with his work as researcher, designer and inventor.

Now, believing that the United States is in dire peril because of its neglect of airpower, De Seversky has addressed a more challenging, rousing appeal to public opinion than his signal thesis, "Victory Through Airpower." The new book, "America — Too Young to Die!" is Major de Seversky's impassioned plea for public pressure on the government for action to offset blunders and delays, and his ideas on how the Russian advantage can be overcome. The Morning World begins Sunday an exclusive serialization of the new bestseller, as a matter of news.

It will welcome letters about it from readers.

The climactic attack on the station followed three hours of political speeches at Colon Park that caught spectators by surprise. They had not seen an open opposition political meeting here since Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo rebuilt the city after the 1930 hurricane and renamed it for himself.

Trujillo was assassinated May 0, and his political heirs, attempting to hold on to their rule, have been promising political reforms and freedom for the opposition.

One speaker, a young university student federation leader named Jose del Carmen Rodrigues, demanded that the old capital be given back its former name of Santo Domingo.

He also demanded that the university be given autonomy — freedom from government interference.

The main speakers were Angel Miolan, Nicolas Silfa and Ramon A. Castillo, leaders of the Dominican Revolutionary party—PRD—who returned only Wednesday aft- [illegible] of exile.

They spoke from the balcony of their new headquarters to the crowd in Colon Park.

Oil Worker Killed Here In Accident

tine was drawn against a drum and wrapped around about four times by the horse lines.

Dr. John P. Burton, Ouachita Parish coroner, said that Valentine died of a broken neck.

Sheriff's department officials said that there were three other men on the well at the time of the accident who shut off the winch. Sheriff's deputies said that the winch "moves very fast."

A cathead is a big steam-driven winch that has steel drums on either side and is used for lifting pipes or other objects. Authorities explained that the horse lines crushed Valentine against the drum.

The well where the accident occurred is the Olin Mathieson Unit B well.

Driller on the rig is L. D. Griffin, Jr., of Calhoun.

The body was picked up by a Hixson Brothers ambulance. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Soviets Veto British Plan For Kuwait

tion we have seen the frustration of a proposal in this council to alleviate tension."

He asserted that in the absence of any specific action a serious situation still existed. He put the council on notice to expect another emergency meeting if conditions necessitated.

He said the debate would have some value if it slowed down Iraq's "annexationist policies against a small nation."

KUWAIT (AP) — The British pulled their Coldstream Guardsmen out of Kuwait Friday night. They were flown to Bahrain Island, the British base in the Persian Gulf.

The guardsmen left less than a week after the British build-up in Kuwait started and less than 18 hours after its completion.

The British move had been undertaken after Iraq's Premier Abdel Karim Kassem had threatened to annex the rich oil sheikdom at the head of the gulf.

The transfer to Bahrain, about 300 miles southeast of Kuwait City, involved about 250 men, with air and naval support.

Informants said the British — following a quick-in, quick-out policy — now felt a deterrent effect against Kassem's takeover bid has been achieved. Official reasoning is that with the immediate danger of attack averted, a reduced force would be just as effective as a fully equipped force in demonstrating British support of Kuwait.

Suspect Arrested For Market Holdup

He said the men were ordered to put on their raincoats and told to break formation and take cover.

"When they started to take cover, the lightning came very suddenly," Mitchell said. "A bolt of lightning struck and richocheted off a large tree into a group of about 20 soldiers nearby."

The men were among 30,000 troops now undergoing combat training at the 100,000 acre post on the Alabama-Georgia border. Other soldiers with them at the rifle range were not harmed by the lightning.

Yanks Take Over First

Maul Bosox 14-3 While Tigers Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees moved back into the American League lead by clobbering the Boston Red Sox 14-3 Friday night behind southpaw Bud Daley. Elston Howard drove in four runs and Bobby Richardson and Roger Maris each banged in three.

It was the third straight success for the Yankees and put them a half-game ahead of the Detroit Tigers, who slipped to second with a 4-2 defeat by Los Angeles.

Only Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron failed to collect an RBI among the starters as the Yanks unloaded 16 hits against loser Gene Conley (3-7) and three relievers.

Daley (7-10), winning his third in five decisions as a Yankee after coming to New York from Kansas City, gave up eight hits. He had a three-hit shutout until Jim Pagliaroni opened the seventh inning with his 11th home run. That ended a string of 24 scoreless innings by Yankee pitchers.

The Yanks, who also ripped off four doubleplays while gaining their seventh victory in the past eight games, broke loose for six runs in the second inning before Conley could get a man out.

Ten men went to the plate in the inning, in which the Yankees had five consecutive hits, including a two-run double by Richardson and a closing two-run single by Maris.

They added another in the fourth, on Richardson's double and a ground out by Maris, then collected four more in the seventh inning before Howard's seventh home run, his third in two games, closed out the scoring with two men on base in the eighth.

Bucs Tumble Braves' Ace In 9th Frame

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Pittsburgh came from behind with two runs in the ninth inning off reliever Warren Spahn and beat the Milwaukee Braves 6-5 Friday night.

The Braves held a 5-4 lead going into the ninth as Hank Aaron drove in all of Milwaukee's runs with two homers.

Spahn came in to replace rookie Tony Cloninger, who had held the Pirates to six hits in eight innings but had occasional streaks of wildness. Spahn was charged with the defeat and now is 8-11 for the season. Al McBean won it for his first major league triumph.

Dick Schofield and Bill Mazeroski singled to start the final inning. Pinch hitter Joe Christopher beat out a perfect bunt down the third base line and when Felix Mantilla threw past first for an error, Schofield and Mazeroski scored.

Aaron got his 19th homer in the first inning off Harvey Haddix, driving two men home in front of him. He got his 20th in the third with Frank Bolling on base to give the Braves a 5-1 margin.

The Pirates got a run in the third on Haddix's single, a double by Bill Virdon and a sacrifice fly by Dick Groat. They added another in the fifth on Groat's solo homer and a third in the seventh on a double by Mazeroski, an infield out and a single by Virdon.

GENTILE TIES MARK

Orioles Soar-Up; Peck A's Twice

BALTIMORE (AP) — A record-tying grand slam homer by Jim Gentile and complete-game pitching by Chuck Estrada and Hal Brown sparked the surging Baltimore Orioles into a doubleheader victory over the Kansas City Athletics Friday night.

Baltimore won the opener 6-2 on Gentile's fourth grand slam of the season, a 400-foot pinch-hit blast in the sixth inning, as Estrada hurled a six-hitter. Brown blanked the A's 5-0 in the nightcap on four hits.

The Orioles, who have won six of their last seven games and 14 of their last 18, moved into a third-place tie with the Cleveland Indians by sweeping the twinbill.

Gentile tied an American League record with his grand slam. Only six other players have hit four in one season, including Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Rudy York, Tommy Henrich, Al Rosen and Ray Boone. Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs holds the major league mark of five.

The pinch-hit appearance by Gentile was his first time at bat since he jammed his right thumb in a collision at first base last Tuesday.

He hit a 2-2 pitch by Ed Rakow after the Orioles had loaded the bases on a single by Whitey Herzog and two walks. The blow snapped a 2-2 tie and gave Estrada his seventh victory. It was Gentile's 22nd homer of the season and upped his RBI total to 80.

Estrada has benefitted by all four grand slams by Gentile. Two came on consecutive times at bat May 9 to set a major league record, and the other was hit last Sunday.

Brown didn't walk a batter as he notched his seventh victory, and first since June 10. He retired 17 men in a row between first and seventh inning singles by Jim Rivera.

Baltimore scored two runs in the third inning of the nightcap off lefty Jim Archer on doubles by Jerry Adair and Brooks Robinson, and a single by Gus Triandos.

A double by Brown and two fly balls scored another in the fifth and the Orioles added two unearned runs in the sixth after first baseman Norm Siebern dropped a pop fly.

Latman Stops Chicago 8-0 As Starter

CLEVELAND (AP)—Barry Latman pitched shutout ball and Willie Kirkland hit a two-run homer as the Cleveland Indians snapped a four-game losing streak with a 9-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox Friday night.

The triumph, which gave Latman an 8-0 record, was his second as a starter. The 25-year-old righthander gave up 10 hits, but kept them scattered except for one inning.

The Indians got a run in the first inning to end a 23-inning scoring famine during which they were shut out twice by the New York Yankees. Johnny Temple led off with a single to left field, went to third on a single by Jimmy Piersall and scored on a sacrifice fly by Bubba Phillips.

Kirkland's homer, his 11th of the season, followed a leadoff single by Phillips in the fourth.

Ray Herbert started and worked six innings in losing his eighth game in 14 decisions. Don Larsen finished on the mound for the White Sox and was bombed for six runs in the eighth.

After being held to one hit in each of the first six innings, the White Sox loaded the bases in the seventh on singles by Sherm Lollar, Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox, but Floyd Robinson hit a fly to Piersall in center field to end the threat.

The White Sox missed scoring a run in the ninth because Andy Carey left third base too soon on a fly ball caught by Kirkland in right field.

Carey led off with a single and advanced to third when Phillips fumbled Lollar's grounder and then made a wild throw to first. Joe Martin batted for Larsen and lined to Kirkland, who made a shoestring catch. Carey crossed the plate, but was ruled out for leaving third before Kirkland made the catch.

Two errors by Aparicio opened the gates for the Inians' outburst in the eighth. Temple led off with a single and stole second. He scored when Aparicio fumbled Piersall's grounder and then made a wild throw to first. The big blow of the rally was a bases loaded double by Mike DeLaHoz which scored three runs.

Bilko Blast Drops Tigers From Summit

DETROIT (AP)—Steve Bilko's eighth inning home run to the opposite field propelled the Los Angeles Angels to a 4-2 victory over Detroit Friday night and knocked the Tigers out of first place in the American League.

The home run by the huge first baseman, a former Tiger, came off ace reliever Terry Fox and broke a 2-2 tie. Earl Averill hit a ninth inning home run off Fox for an insurance run.

The New York Yankees walloped Boston 14-3 and moved into first place ahead of the Tigers by 12 percentage points.

Except for an interval between games of the July 4 doubleheader against the Yankees, the Tigers have led the league since June 15 and in all have been in first place for 68 days.

Right-hander Ken McBride was in trouble in every inning except the fourth, but finished strong and captured his eighth victory with the help of four doubleplays. He spaced seven hits and the only damaging blow was Al Kaline's 10th home run that came in the first inning with a mate aboard.

The Angeles' victory was their seventh in a row and their 10th in 11 games. They routed starter Hal Woodeshick in the first inning when the first four batters reached safely.

Three singles and a walk scored one run and the bases were loaded when Paul Foytack took over. He got out of the jam on a doubleplay and a strike out and yielded only one run and three hits before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning.

Bilko's walk and singles by ex-Tiger bonus outfielder George Thomas and Billy Moran produced a Los Angeles run in the fourth inning.

Bilko's game-winning home run was his 11th of the season and was the first earned run off Fox in 18 innings of relief pitching. Averill's round tripper was his 13th.

It marked the third victory for McClain over the Twins an raised his over-all mark to 7-7.

Danny O'Connell opened the Washington first inning with a single to center field, stole second and continued to third on catcher Earl Battey's throwing error. Gene Woodling drove him in with the first of three singles.

Marty Keough opened the second inning with a home run, his seventh, over the right field wall. With two out, O'Connell doubled down the right field line and scored on Bill Klaus' single to center.

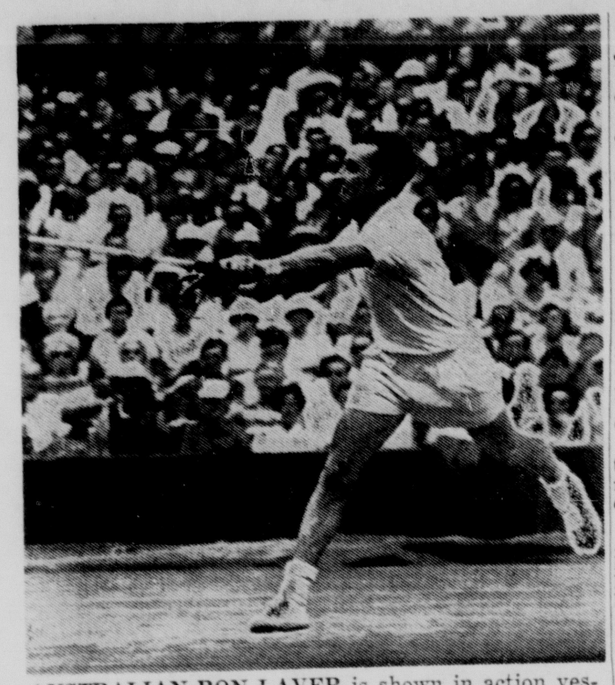
McKinley Beaten In Singles



AUSTRALIAN RON LAVER is shown in action yesterday as he defeated Chuck McKinley of St. Ann., Mo., to win the Men's singles title at the All England tenis championships at Wimbledon. Laver took 55 minutes to win, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4. (AP Wirephoto by radio from London)

Aussie Laver Dumps Yank In Jig Time

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Rod Laver, a red-haired Australian queenslander, outgunned and outmaneuvered Chuck McKinley, the 5-foot-8 bundle of energy from St. Louis, Friday and won the Wimbledon men's singles crown o nhis third try.

The score was 6-3, 6-1, 6-4 and the whole match lasted exactly 55 minutes—one of the shortest finals on record.

Laver was losing finalist to Alex Olmedo in 1959 and to Neale Fraser last year. This was McKinley's second time out at Wimbledon. He came here as an unseeded but promising youngster last year and went out in the second round.

A lucky wood shot that trickled over the net gave Laver the winning point, but his victory was anything but lucky. Right from the start he ran McKinley around the court, switching his attack from one court to the other and drawing the American to the net to pass him down the sidelines.

McKinley, who has made a tremendous reputation for himself with his terrier-like retrieving tactics, needs a lot of luck as he goes for his shots. Friday the luck wasn't with him. He got many shots anyone else would have missed but he just couldn't pull off the winners as he had done against Bobby Wilson and Mike Sangster in the two preceding rounds.

The match, which saw an American pitched against an Australian in the final for the first time since Dick Savitt of Philadelphia beat Ken McGregor 10 years ago, started off with both men holding their services fairly easily.

It was McKinley, exuberant and a bundle of nervous energy, who opened up first with his big guns when he rocked Laver by running up a 40-0 lead in the sixth game with the score 2-3 and Laver serving.

An acrobatic leap and twist in mid-air from McKinley sent a backhand volley far out of Laver's reach. Chuck followed this with a scorching backhand volley that clipped the sidelines, and the perturbed Australian promptly doublefaulted. However McKinley lacked the experience to punch his advantage home and hit wildly to let Laver get back to deuce. McKinley eventually netted a service return and Laver pulled out the game.

Laver, with the experience of two center court finals to steady him, cracked McKinley's service in the seventh game, won his own delivery at love and got another break in the ninth game for the set. McKinley at this stage looked bewildered.

The bandy-legged Australianm needed only 10 minutes to take the second set. Playing picture-book tennis, he reeled off the first three games with loss of only three points. The American held service in the fourth but lost the next three games in a row.

McKinley appeared troubled by Laver's twisting second service, which bounced wide to his backhand. He fought desperately but had no chance against the Australian's qizardy.

The stocky American, gritting his teeth, came out fighting in the third set and for eight games the set followed service. Then in the ninth, Laver pulled off three of the best shots of the match—a pair of lightning forehands and a backhand down the line—to break McKinley for 5-4.

McKinley, fighting hard, deuced the 10th game and fought off one match point with a sizzling backhand. But on the second match point Laver, attempting to smash, caught the ball on the wood his racket and the ball trickled over the net. McKinley scampered for it, but in vain.

Two British girls, 6-foot Christine Truman and Angela Mortimer, meet Saturday for the women's singles crown.

Golden One won by two lengths over Mineral Board. A length and quarter away in third place was Hill.

The winner sped the 6 furlongs in 1:09 3-5 and paid $7.60.

LEADING MONEY WINNERS

Palmer And Player Collide In British Golf Tourney

BIRKDALE, England (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, the two leading money winners in the United States, forgot their rivalry Friday and gave each other tips on how to master the tricky Birkdale course during the British Open Golf Championship starting Monday.

They went out together in a practice round, often exchanged views on how to play difficult holes and advised each other on which clubs to use.

Palmer, former U.S. Open and Masters champion, found the greens tricky and decided to spend the rest of the day trying to straighten out his putting game.

"I missed some putts early and suddenly lost interest," said Palmer, of Latrobe, Pa. "I'm not satisfied with my form at the moment but I'll get it all straightened out before Monday."

Player, 25-year-old South African and current holder of the U.S. Masters crown, said: "I had a very good round and hit some fine shots. I went around in about 68. Palmer had about 73."

Palmer and Player are favorites in the 101st British Open, which has drawn a field of 369 at Birkdale Friday—but it made little impresson on the parched, sunbaked 6,844-yard links.

"The course is about as dry as any I have played on," Player said. Palmer agreed with him. Both men got long rolls on the ball and at the 470-yard 18th Palmer sent a screamer down the fairway. It stopped after about 330 yards and all he needed was a wedge to the green.

"If the weather stays calm and there is no rain then I think about 275 will win the title next Friday," Palmer said.

The record total for the Open is shared by Peter Thomson of Australia and his countryman, Kel Nagle. Thomson had a total of 278 at Royal Lytham and St. Anne's in 1958 and Nagle finished with the same score in winning the title by one stroke from Palmer at St. Andrews last year.

The bookies make Palmer 5-2 favorite, with Player second favorite at 3-1. Thomson and Nagle are the two players tipped as the most likely to stop Player and Palmer in the 72-hold medal play tournament.

Palmer heads a 16-man challenge from the United States. Qualifying rounds will be played Monday and Tuesday with a maximum of 120 players going forward.

The field will be cut to a maximum of 50 for the final two rounds on Friday.

NEITHER LEAGUE STRONGER

Puts Quietus On Majors Squabble

BALTIMORE (AP) — Down through the years, if you ever wanted an argument, all you had to say was that one of the major baseball leagues—the American or the National—was stronger than the other.

But Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles, who will lead the American League All-Stars next Tuesday when they meet the National League squad, says if there has been a difference he has yet to notice it.

"There never has been any appreciable difference between the two leagues, even in the twenties and the thirties when the American League won the big majority of the All-Star and World Series games," he says.

"But there always have been those few fanatics who have their favorites and harp on it.

"There is no way to compare the stars of the two leagues because of the differences in the physical dimensions of the parks.

"Over the last 10 or 12 years, the National League, in order to combat the publicity the American League hitters were getting for their greater home run production, shortened the fence distances in a number of their parks.

"Brooklyn's Ebbets Field was a joke, while Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and St. Louis were altered to increase the homers.

"In the American League, on the other hand, fence distances have been made greater, notably in Washington and Kansas City," Richards said.

He claimed Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, who will be in center field for the American League All-Stars, would hit 80 home runs a season if he was a National Leaguer.

"If ball players were to make the shift from one league to another and were to burn up the new league or perform far below previous standards, you could point to something, but even this fails to be conclusive," the Oriole manager said.

"As far as a seven-game World Series is concerned, a college team could win a series of that length."

Little Boys

Louisiana Power and Light downed Sinclair 5-1 behind the winning battery of Gates and Kincaid, in Northside Little Boys baseball. Randal Walker went two for at the plate for the winners. For the losers the battery was Payne and Floyd.

In Southside Play Central Bank walked over Farmer Heard 13-2 behind the two for three hitting of Spillers. Lambert and Booth were the winning battery and the losers Hale and Lawls. Johnson led the losing cause at the plate with a two for three night at the plate.

Law Gets Bench Because Of Arm

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vernon Law, whose 20 victories last season helped lead Pittsburgh to the championship, will be lost to the Pirates for at least six weeks because of a sore shoulder, the ball club said Friday.

After Dr. Albert B. Ferguson Jr., an orthopedic specialist, examined the veteran right-hander for 20 minutes, the Pirates asked the National League office to place him on the 30-day disabled list.

"Dr. Ferguson has informed us that the tendons in the back of his right shoulder are swollen and still sore," a club spokesman said. "The doctor says Law must give the shoulder a complete rest for a minimum of six weeks."

Law finished the regular season last year with a 20-9 record and won two games in the World Series against New York. He received the Cy Young Award as he was voted the best pitcher in the majors.

This year, however, he has only a 3-4 mark and has pitched sparingly since April 29 when he injured the rotatormuscle in his shoulder.

Law took the decision to put him on the disabled list as something he "just has to accept." He said:

"It's for the best the way things have turned out. I haven't been any help to the ball club. I think the shoulder will be all right, though. It's just a matter of time. We've tried just about everything that could be tried. Sometimes mother nature has to take over."

Law, whose salary is reportedly in the neighborhood of $40,000, said he'd go home to Boise, Idaho, within a week.

"If I stick around here," he explained, "I'll probably be hanging around Forbes Field and throwing a ball once in a while to see how the arm feels."

Ironically, Law has had physical troubles since the day the Pirates clinched the pennant last season. He twisted his ankle during a post-game celebration.

However, Law said there is no connection between the ankle injury and his current trouble. "I haven't favored the ankle or changed my pitching motion," he said.

It's possible that Law won't be back with the Pirates the rest of the season. According to Law, Manager Danny Murtaugh told him the other day:

"If we're in the pennant race when this (the shoulder trouble) is all over, we'll call you. If not, maybe we'll let you rest the remainder of the season."

Brownville swamped A&E Grocery 18-8 with three men collecting four for four at the plate in the person of Hamby, Robinson and Coronoda. Aimworth rapped three hits for the losers. The winning battery was Hamby and Salters and losers were Pimpin and Johnson.

In Church B League Emmanual won over by forfeit over the Church of God.

Southside Methodist won over Church of Christ in Church A League 6-5 behind the hitting pace of Solomon and Neal who rapped two hits each. The winning battery was Grimsley and Solomon and the losers were R. Wyatt and Fisher. Hyman collected two hits for the losers.

The winning battery was Rawls and Price, and the losers and Hattaway and Machen. Pearson clubbed two homers for the losing cause.

In Church B League Play First Christian won by forfeit to McClendon Baptist.

Temple downed Ridge Avenue 11-8 behind the grand slam blast of Kulcke. The battery for the winners were Halley and Thurman and the losers Haddad and Becton. White had a two for two night at the plate for the losers.

Chicago Cubs Rip Phils 9-3 On Five-Hitter

CHICAGO (AP)—Don Cardwell struck out 11 batters in a five-hit performance Friday as the Chicao Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 9-3.

Winning his eighth victory against six losses, the right-hander of no-hit fame served only two walks. His strikeouts, high for the Cubs this season, included Tony Taylor, Tony Gonzalez and Pancho Herrera in a row in the eighth inning Herrera fanned in each of his four trips.

Ernie Banks' two-run homer in the second inning was the Cubs' main blow in a 11-hit salvo that gave the tail end Phillies their fourth straight loss and 11th in their last 12 games. Banks' drive against the wind into the left field bleachers was his 13th homer of the season.

The Cubs jumped on Chris Short, the first of three pitchers, for three runs in the initial inning. Short forced in one on a walk and Dick Bertell drove in two with a bases-filled single.

The Cubs added pairs of runs in the second, third and fourth innings, doubles by Cardwell and Billy Williams accounting for four of the runs.

FROM RUSSIAN MEET

Senator Wonders Why Stars Barred

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., asked a congressional inquiry Friday into a ruling by the Amateur Athletic Union which he said bars nine top U.S. athletes from competing against Russia at a Moscow track meet.

Engle asked Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-A[illegible], of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to look into the matter since he said the State Department is advancing $92,132.50 under the cultural exchange program to send a U. S. track team to compete in Russia July 15-16 under AAU auspices.

His complaint is that the AAU has scheduled several other track meets in Europe that will extend the trip over a three-week period and has ruled that those making up the U. S. team "must make the full three-week tour or not go at all."

Engle did not name those who would be left behind under the ruling, but said "these individuals were willing and able to compete in Russia, but were unable to leave their jobs for the full three-week period."

Engle asked Fulbright's committee or staff to inquire into the matter.

Engle's letter went on to say:

"We all know that the Russians use these athletic events for propaganda purposes. So far as the Soviets are concerned, that is not 'cultural exchange' at all. It seems to me that it is very bad business for our government to help finance a trip to Moscow to compete with Russian athletes if we are not sending the strongest team we can put in the field. We may be supplying them with another opportunity of claiming superiority over the United States.

"I understand that the $92,132.50 advance may be repaid in whole or part at such future time as the Russian team visits the United States, but this does not change the significant aspects of this situation.

"If the State Department is going to put up money for this kind of 'exchange,' it should insist on some kind of control so that the United States does not appear at a disadvantage. Otherwise, I believe that the State Department should stay out of this matter and insist that the AAU act as a completely private agency."

James Simms, secretary of the AAU, said in New York that it was cvorrect that his organization had received the money from the State Department but said it was "a loan or an advance, not a gift, and that it was for a track tour." He said the tour was not limited to Russia.

Under the home and home agreements between the AAU and Russian track officials, the Americans pay their own transportation to Moscow with the Soviet sponsors keeping the entire gate receipts except for U.S. expenses while in Russia. Next year, the situation will be reversed and and Simms said the AAU then would refund the money.

He said the AAU would get a minimum of $7,000 each from track organizations in Germany, Poland and England for meets following the Moscow two-day event.

Simms said the 72-member U.S. party, which leaves for Moscow Saturday evening, was made up of 41 male athletes, 17 women athletes, three coaches for the men, one coach for the women, three team managers for the men, and three AAU officials.

"These trips to Russia have been going on since 1958," said Simms, "and we always have had advances from the State Department and we always have paid back every cent."

ROYAL HENLEY REGATTA

Two American Crews Go Into Finals Competition

HENLEY - ON - THAMES, England (AP)—Two American crews won their way Friday into the finals of the tradition-steeped Royal Henley Regatta on the placid Thames.

The U.S. survivors were the eight-oared crew of the Eliot House of Harvard, which eliminated the Kent School of Connecticut, and the four from South Kent School of Connecticut. The American losers were the double sculls, Rickey Burnes and Bobby Lea of Harvard and the University Barge Club of Philadelphia in addition to the Kent eight.

While the American group was reduced, the favored Russians gained the finals of the premier Grand Challenge Cup for eights, the Diamond sculls, the double sculls and the Steward's Challenge Cup for fours.

Both American winners face formidable tasks Saturday. They moved into the semifinals and will have to win twice to capture the prized trophies. Ten finals in all will be held Saturday.

Eliot House, which eliminated Cornell's lightweights on opening day, scored by two lengths over Kent on a pleasant, sunny and almost windless day. Eliot took the lead early and gradually widened the gap as the schoolboys faded in the second half. The winners were timed in 7 minutes, 1 second for the mile and 550 yards.

In the morning semifinal Eliot House will meet the University of London crew, which was two seconds faster than Eliot in winning its quarter-final. The winner will meet the survivor of the other semifinal between Jesus Club of Cambridge University and the Royal Chester Rowing Club. Jesus College was the fastest Friday with a time of 6:58.

South Kent, competing for the Wyfold Cup, had to extend itself to the utmost to beat the Nottingham City Rowing Club entry by a bare 2 feet in 7:34.

Saturday the schoolboys, unbeaten in nine races this year, will meet the Thames Tradesmen. South Kent will take on the winner of the other semifinal between the National Provincial Bank Rowing Club and the Norwich Union Rowing Club. South Kent's time was the best of the four semifinalists.

Burnes and Lea were unbeaten by three lengths by the British champion tandem of George Justicz and Norman Birkmyre. The Britons were timed in 7:48. They set the event record of 7:17 last year.

The Britons, however, will be underdogs to the Russian Olympic veterans, Alexandre Berkutov and Yuri Tukalov. The Russians won the Olympic title in 1956 and finished second at Rome last summer.

Major interest is in the grand challenge eights and the single sculls. The Soviet's Naval Sports Club eight looked impressive in gaining the final with a 2¼ lengths victory over the London Rowing Club in 6:48. The Russians will meet the much lighter Leander Club of Henley, a group of Oxford University veterans, Leander defeated the Thames Rowing Club by one length in 6:52.

The battle for the diamond sculls matches Australia's strapping Stuart MacKenzie, defender and four-times winner, and Russia's Oleg Tjurin.

The Australian, recovered from the illness that forced him to withdraw from the 1960 Olympics, was extended to edge another Australian, Ian Tutty, by one-third of a length in 8:23.

Tjurin won comfortably by four lengths over Britain's S. C. Rand in 8:29. The event record is eight minutes flat.

Buster Cupit Has Lead In St. Paul Open

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Buster Cupit, a 34-year-old club pro from Fort Smith, Ark., grabbed the lead at the halfway mark Friday in the $30,000 St. Paul Open Golf Tournament with an 11-under par 133.

Cupit got a 5-under 67 to go with an opening 66 to gain a one-stroke lead over Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., who carded 66-68 over the par 36-36—72 Keller course.

Dave Hill, Denver, who stroked the tourney's best round, a 7-under-par 65 Friday, was third at 135 as the younger pros on the tour took command. Tied at 136 were Jack Fleck, Los Angeles, and young Tommy Aaron, from Gainesville, Ga.

Cupit, one of seven brothers, five of them golf pros, rapped in six birdies and had his only bogey on the ninth hole where he first missed the green and then blew a 3-foot putt.

Pott missed his chance for a tie for the lead when he took three from the edge on the 18th hole, missing a 4-foot putt for a birdie. Pott got three birdies on the first nine, two on the second.

He took his only bogey on the 15th where he overshot the green.

Hill had eight birdies on his 7-under card but three-putted the 16th for a bogey. The public relationsman had 12 one-putt greens.

National Open champion Gene Littler shot a 70 for a 138 on the two days and defending titlist Don Fairfield finished with 70-71 for 141. The cutoff scores for the low 70 and ties for Saturday's third round was 145.

THOROUGHBRED RACING EVENT

Hollywood Derby Classic Challenges Arlington Foe

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The $100,000-added Hollywood Derby and the $75,000-added Arlington Classic, both for 3-year-olds, are the star spangled attractions of the thoroughbred racing program Saturday.

Jacob Sher's Sherluck, the 65-1 colt who won the $148,000 Belmont Stakes, and Alberta Ranches' Four-and-Twenty, top the Hollywood field of 10 with 126 pounds each. This is a 1¼ mile test matching two top Eastern colts against the best in the West. Four-and-Twenty won the Santa Anita Derby.

The Classic has colts capable of burning up the Arlington Park racing strip. Fred W. Hooper's Crozier, who dominated the Kentucky Derby until Carry Back nailed him near the finish, is the probable 3-1 favorite in the one-mile event. Twelve were entered in the 33rd Classic.

Leonard P. Sasso's Globemaster who set the early Derby and Preakness pace until Carry Backs late victory surge, will keep Crozier company. Throw in Calumet Farm's Beau Prince, and this should be a dilly. Globemaster also was second in the Belmont after cutting out the early pace.

The $25,000-added Sheepshead Bay Handicap on the Aqueduct grass course, the $25,000-added Molly Pitcher Handicap for fillies and mares at Monmouth Park, and the $20,000-added Diamond State Handicap at Delaware Park are other major stakes.

Mrs. R.L. Dotter's Guadalcanal third in the Belmont Stakes, went West with Sherluck for the Hollywood Derby. This son of Citation is one to watch. Under the allowance conditions he gets into the race with only 110 pounds.

Guadalcanal came from last in a field of seven at Belmont June 29 and won by four lengths going away. Jockey Manuel Ycaza is the pilot. Johnny Longden rides Four-and-Twenty with Tommy Barrow aboard Sherluck.

Crozier, rested since he was beaten by Ambiopoise in the Jersey Derby May 30, will be ridden by Braulio Baeza. John L. Rotz rides Globemaster, winner of last Saturday's Saranac at Aqueduct. Eddie Arcaro will be on Beau Prince. Under the Classic conditions, Globemaster has high weight of 119 pounds, with 114 for Beau Prince and Crozier. Vera Smith's Bass Clef, third in the Kentucky Derby, has 115, with Bill Hartack up.

Wolfram, who has won four big grass course stakes for the Harbor View Farm, must pack 130 pounds in the 1⅛-mile Sheepshead Bay. Ten were entered in the race. Mrs. Stephen Clark's Shield Bearer, who broke the Delaware Park track record last week, has 120 pounds. Marion R. Frankel's Call the Witness, winner of Monmouth's Longfellow Handicap, has 116.

Eighteen fillies and mares were named for the 1 1-16 mile Molly Pitcher. The field is headed by Hugh Grant's Airmans Guide with 124 pounds. Brae Burn Farm's Shirley Jones, 121, William B. McDonald's Royal Native, 123, and Calumet's Sun Glint, 119, are other top choices.

The Shoestring Stable's Ashlar, winner of the Laurel Handicap, tops the Diamond State lineup under 115 pounds. Ten were entered for this 1 1-16 mile stake. Others entered include M. H. Schlosberg's Lord Gregor, 113; and George A. Garrett's Bonzo, 112, coupled as an entry, and Pine Three Stable's Nasomo, 112.

WILMA RUDOLPH

Fastest Woman Admits Laziness

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilma Rodolph, the world's fastest woman, was late for two important appointments Friday, and she said her excuse was the same that kept her from shattering more world running records.

"I'm just naturally lazy," she apologized. "I've never run my best race."

Wilma, heroine of the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome, was 45 minutes late for a date to receive the Babe Didrikson Zaharias Trophy, awarded annually to the "woman athlete of the year" in The Associated Press poll.

She was 20 minutes late for a State Department briefing for the 31 men and 17 women track and field stars leaving by chartered plane Saturday night for meets in Russia, West Germany, Poland and Britain.

Attractively dressed in a white blouse an a yellow skirt which hugged her long, lean legs, Wilma received the Zaharias Trophy from Ted Smits, sports editor of The Associated Press, on behalf of George Zaharias.

"I'm sorry I'm late," Wilma said. "I have a hard time getting going. I'm always tired."

The tall Negro girl from Tennessee A. and I. in Nashville, Tenn., looked anything but tired last year in Rome when she won the 100 and 200 meter races and anchored the winning women's relay team in the Olympic Games.

She did the 100 meters in world record time of 11.3 seconds, after being clocked in 11 flat with a favoring wind in one of the preliminary heats, and she recorded 24 flat in the 200. Her listed world record is :22.9.

"I could get much better times if I wasn't so lazy," she said. "For some reason, I just can't move through the first 50 yards. After I'm under way, I don't have much trouble."

Wilma, 21, with another year of college left, said she rather doubted that she would set any records on the European trip.

"I've been sick for about three weeks and I'm not in the best shape," she said. "Besides, I'll miss my coach (Edward Temple, Tennessee A. and I.).

Miss Rudolph was an overwhelming choice for "athlete of the year" honors, breaking a tennis monopoly. Maria Bueno of Brazil, the Wimbledon tennis champion, was the 1959 winner while Althea Gibson, another tennis star, won the trophy two years previously.

All-Stars Point For Sunday Tilt Against Arcadia

The Monroe All-Stars will be after their tenth victory in 14 games this season when they meet the Arcadia Blues in a Negro semi-pro baseball game at Legion Memorial Stadium here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Manager Lloyd Johnson's All-Stars will be meeting the Blues for the first time this season since an earlier scheduled date was rained out. In a year and a half at the helm for Johnson, the Stars have won 30 of 34.

Lavern Jones, ace of the All-Star hurlers, fanned 14 batters in beating Alexandria's Negro club at Alexandria last Saturday night in a seven - inning game. He has a 5-2 mark for the season. Arthur Jackson has won his two starts for the Stars, and Oscar Williams has won two while losing only one.

Braves Seeking Crandall Place With Disabled

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves asked permission Friday night to place veteran catcher Del Crandall on the disabled list.

Crandall was one of the best catchers in the major leagues until he was injured the second week of the 1961 season. He suffered a shoulder injury that has not responded to treatment.

Milwaukee General Manager John McHale said that the club had asked permission from National League President Warren Giles and the commissioner's office to place Crandall on the disabled list.

McHale said the club planned to send Crandall to the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., for a complete examination Monday.

Crandall came up to the majors in 1949, joining the Braves, then at Boston after only a year in the minors. He has been with the Braves since that time, except for two years spent in military service.

Crandall has caught more than 100 games a season since the Braves came to Milwaukee in 1953 and was on seven National League teams that played in All-Star games. He had his best year in 1960, batting .294 and catching 142 games.

JAPANESE PARTY

Miss Wilson and Mr. Barham were entertained with a Japanese supper party on Thursday, July 6, in the W. T. Davis home on Glenmar. Hosting the event with Mr. and Mrs. Davis were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dansby. In the entrance hall was a multi-colored arrangement in a tureen reflected in a large mirror. A miniature angel engraved with the date of the approaching nuptials was placed in the center of a wedding ring bowl filled with white dahlia buds.

Guests were invited onto the patio, which was outlined with hurricane lamps and lighted by suspended Japanese lanterns. Potted plants were placed around the patio. An oriental atmosphere was reflected in the family room, where supper was served. Centering the buffet table was a statue of Kwan-Yen, an oriental goddess, with a unique arrangement of driftwood and Japanese yew.

Guest tables were centered with oriental arrangements in bamboo vials on miniature black laquer trays. Place cards were character symbols.

Invited to the party with the honor guests and hosts were: Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Barham, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Barham, Mr. and Mrs. Noland Harvey Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, Miss Martha Riser, Dr. Leonard Bunch, Miss Patricia Richardson, George Gowan, Miss Nancy Wilson, Dick Ethridge, Miss Karen Williams, Alex Rankin, and Dr. and Mrs. Harry Moresi Jr.

LUNCHEON

Miss Wilson and Miss Mary Elizabeth Webster, whose marriage to Thomas Richardson will be an event of August 5, were honored with a luncheon on Thursday at 12:30 p.m. at the Grecian Bend Plantation near Monroe. Miss Webster is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harrell Webster, and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Richardson are parents of the prospective groom.

Mrs. Grayson Guthrie was hostess for the event.

Arrangements of pink crepe myrtle were in evidence in the hall and on the porch. On the buffet table was a bouquet of white magnolias.

Among those invited to share the festive event with the two honorees and hostess were: Mrs T. F. Wilson, Mrs. Harrell Webster, Miss Martha Riser, Miss Mary Jo Davenport, Miss Nancy Wilson, and Mrs. R. C. Meek, all of Monroe; Mrs. E. M. Barham, Mrs. E. E. Barham, of Oak Ridge; Mrs. T. H. B. Rankin, Mrs. Guy Williams, and Miss Karen Williams, of Mer Rouge; Mrs. George Vordenbaumen of Baton Rouge, Miss Patricia Richardson of Rayville, and Mrs. J.T. Richardson of Ruston.

Spanish Supermarkets Draw Few Customers

By HAROLD F. HORST
United Press International

MADRID (UPI) — American-style supermarkets capture the curiosity but not always the cash of Spanish shoppers.

Customers at the "supermercados," now in their second year of operation here, seem to prefer browsing like delighted children in a toy store to buying armloads of groceries.

Besides, there are many strictly Spanish aspects to the supermarket idea that would surprise its originators. For instance, a package of frozen rooster head, feet and gizzard. It sells for 11 cents.

There are about a dozen "supermercados" in this capital of two million people. A few more are scattered in major cities of the provinces.

And business is brisk, except in the grocery section.

In this near Texas-size nation of 30 million the average per capita income is $247 annually. The food dollar must be stretched.

This can best be done by bartering in open air markets or by shopping in neighborhood specialty shops which, for example, sell only fish, or bread, or dairy products.

Tradition is against the supermarket here for the same reason Detroit doesn't sell fin-tailed autos in the African bush country.

"Who needs frozen chicken heads when so few of us own refrigerators?" said a store manager.

Such an attitude seems to be shared by customers in a typical "supermercado" here.

The two-story building has an all-glass front with blue draw drapes at the doors.

The modern store is sandwiched between a small jewelry shop and a century-old church.

A black-shawled old woman (men shoppers are a rarity) cautiously enters carrying a fish net bag. But the store provides brightly colored plastic bags at the door. She chooses a chartreuse one.

At the bread rack a packaged, sliced loaf is carefully inspected then shrugged off as some sort of tomfoolery.

If the woman buys bread, she prefers the inexpensive and unwrapped French loaves stacked seven feet high against a nearby wall.

Pyramids of canned goods on the ground floor and on the steps to the second level also are ignored. Fruits and vegetables are cheaper in the open market.

Frozen hamburger (37 cents a pound) and frozen German frankfurters (5 cents each) are dismissed as "luxury items."

But the woman willingly pays 42 cents for a quart bottle of olive oil—machine-filled while the customer waits — because Spanish cooking floats in the stuff.

Next to the produce section is one of the best buys in the market, sherry. The Spanish national drink sells for 93 cents a fifth. Fundador, or cognac, is a bargain at $1.10.

Spanish gin, if the shopper thinks the risk is worth it, costs 83 cents a fifth.

Take The Healthy Road To Dieting

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Because the aim is to look skinnier than ever this summer, every young girl is keen on the subject of diet.

It wouldn't be a bad goal if girls took the healthy road to the string bean look. But often they starve themselves trying to be thinner than their best friend.

Three dieting teen agers are perfect examples of how-not-to-diet.

One diets on sweets because "sweets fill me up," she says. Another diets on hard boiled eggs. A third girl drinks nothing but liquids for five days or until she loses the excess pounds.

Why not use the plain old system of cutting down on regular balanced meals? Give up 500 calories a day for a week and you should lose at least a pound. Meanwhile you'll get nutritious meals that keep the bloom in your cheeks and sparkle in your eye.

ASK A DOCTOR

Keep track of calories with a calorie counter and spread the calories over three meals. If you are the type who picks at nutritional food, however, supplement your meals with one of the multiple vitamins each day. Ask your doctor to prescribe a diet, exercise and vitamins for you.

"Foods containing calcium, vitamin A and riboflavin often are neglected by both girls and boys," write nutritionists Clara Storvick and Margaret Fincke in a recent publication.

A food plan is necessary in order to avoid the hap - hazardness of blind choice, they advise.

The important thing is to recognize snacks as real meals and see that they fit into the overall plan for eating. Fruit between meals rarely spoils the appetite for the next meal, but chocolate cake might, they point out.

A chronic state of overweight interferes with the attainment of good nutrition these experts say. A girl who is overweight tries desperately to reduce. So she overeats.

PLAN WISELY

"This reduction of food intake needs to be done with care and under the advise of a physician," they explain. The reducer's needs for protein, minerals and vitamins are as great as for the girl of desirable weight. Three good meals a day with fruits, and some bread and cereals are as important as ever. Foods high in calories are the ones to restrict."

MRS. HOWARD BETTS MCMAHON JR.

McMahon-Matte Vows Solemnized In Jennings

Pedestal baskets of white gladioli and fern formed a setting in Our Lady Help of Christians Catholic Church at Jennings for the wedding of Miss Pamela Ann Matte and Howard Betts McMahon Jr., on June 24 at 11 a.m. The Rev. Charles Marin officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley E. Matte of Jennings and Mr. McMahon is the son of Mrs. Lula S. McMahon of Rayville.

Appropriate nuptial music was presented by Mrs. John Liesch, organist and Tommy Cassidy, soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white silk taffeta and Chantilly lace, fashioned with fitted bodice and scalloped portrait neckline embroidered with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. Long sleeves tapered to petal points over her hands and the bouffant skirt, accented with panels of taffeta embroidered lace swept into a chapel train. Her veil of imported silk illusion in fingertip length fell from a crown of iridescent sequins and pearls and she carried a bouquet centered with a yellow throated white orchid.

Miss Sheila Matte served as maid of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were Mrs. George Clyde, Ruston and Mrs. F. L. Greaves Jr., of Rayville. They wore identical gowns of yellow silk organza over matching polished cotton, styled with scoop necklines, basque bodices and bell skirts.

Serving as best man was Henry Grady McMath of Strong, Ark., and groomsmen - ushers were George Clyde and Don Parker of Ruston and Frank Matte, Jennings.

The bride's mother was wearing for the occasion a green silk shantung dress with lace bodice and contrasting green accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink silk shantung sheath with matching accessories.

A reception was held after the ceremony in St. Mary's Catholic Center. Mrs. Grady McMath and Miss Cissy Ford served the wedding cake and Miss Charlotte Stodghill presided at the punch service and Mrs. Danny Nannie, the coffee service. Tiny yellow bags of rice were distributed by Sandra Henry and Candy Bruce.

For a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the bride changed to a blue silk shantung suit with white accessories. The couple has established a home at 325 Glenda Street in Rayville. Mrs. McMahon graduated from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute May 29 with a BS degree in medical technology. Mr. McMahon is also a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute with a BS degree in business administration. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

DEAR ABBY

Some Men Won't Add Up Household Costs

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago my husband put me on an allowance of $15 a week. That was to feed and clothe myself and our two children. Today we have eight children, and I am still getting $15 a week. I just can't make ends meet on this, but my husband isn't able to understand it. How can I beat some sense into his head? —ALWAYS BROKE

DEAR ALWAYS: It's too bad some men don't add as well as they multiply. Write out your budget and hand it to your husband. If he thinks eight children and a wife can be fed and clothed on $60 a month, invite him to try it.

DEAR ABBY: I notice on television and in the movies, when a man kisses a woman, they both close their eyes. I don't see any sense in this. Who made up that rule? When I kiss a man I always keep my eyes open. I look at him while he is kissing me, and his eyes are open, too. Can you answer this question if you don't think it's too stupid. —OPEN EYES

DEAR OPEN: The question is far from stupid. Don't worry about whether the man has his eyes opened or closed, but when a girl kisses a man, she would be wise to keep at least "one" eye open.

DEAR ABBY: The lady across the alley from us chains her dog up to the garage at 6:00 A.M. and leaves him there all day until she gets home at night. Now what would you do, Abby, if you were chained up like this all day long? You would bark, of course. And that is what the dog does. He barks.

I have put cotton in my ears, but then I realized that I couldn't hear the telephone, so I had to stop that. I can't close my windows, because I love the fresh air and dislike a stuffy house. I have never had trouble with my neighbors before. I am renting this house so don't know if I have the right to complain. The lady with the dog owns her home. Have you a suggestion? —FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: The woman with the dog may own her home, but she doesn't own the block. Her dog is disturbing the peace. And it would appear she is abusing her dog to boot. Talk to her about the disturbance her dog is creating. If she doesn't do something about it, the police will.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Living Modern": Yes, decent people still get married first. Your young friend has some very squirrely ideas. Tell him to go climb a tree.

What's bothering you? For a personal reply, write to Abby, in care of News-Star. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Devote That Energy To Something Useful

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: In the past few weeks you've printed some very sad letters from girls who lost "the Great Debate" as you so aptly put it.

They sound depressed, disenchanted, lonesome, and in need of solace. Especially that poor little chick from Peoria—(36-22-36).

Would you kindly forward the name and addresses of these unfortunate girls? There are six guys in this office would be happy to jolly them up a bit and restore their faith in the better things in life. —AD AGENCY BOYS

Dear Ad Boys: I'm touched by your interest in these girls. It's almost more than I can stand. And now—a suggestion for you: Why don't you guys devote all that excess energy to livening up your own copy? It's a shame to waste those gems on little old me.

Dear Ann Landers: Help me, please before I hang myself with the telephone cord.

My 66-year-old aunt phones me every day and yaks on and on about absolutely nothing. She seems to know precisely when I'm shampooing my hair, running for a bus, counting laundry or elbow deep in pie crust.

I realize she calls me because she's lonesome but I invite her to dinner every Sunday and I include her in many small family get-togethers. I don't feel I should have to spend one solid hour every day of my life listening to her on the telephone. It's getting so that whenever I hear her voice I want to scream.

What can I do about this without hurting her feelings? —CAULIFLOWER EAR

Dear Cauliflower: Decide how much time you're going to give her every day. Is ten minutes too much? Than make it eight. Prepare a sentence, place it by the phone, and read it—even if you must interrupt her.

Sample: "I'm sorry, dear, but I must run. If I find a minute later in the day I'll call you."

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is retiring in December. He's in excellent health, experienced in his trade and is only 55 years of age. He refuses to accept a part-time job which was offered to him at almost the same salary he's earning now. He says he is through working — and that now it's my turn.

I asked him if he didn't think raising seven kids was work and he said, "Work means earning a salary and you have never brought home a dime."

I have looked forward to the time when my children would be grown and I could take life a little easier. Now that the time is almost here I just hate to think of taking a job. Besides, I am not qualified to do anything but housework. What is your opinion? —OLD GRAY MARE

Dear Mare: A woman who has raised seven children has done as much work as any man. Stay at home and enjoy the last of life—for which the first was made. You've earned the right to take it easy.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Sorry Now": You should have stayed with him until he "got his strength back." He said he was tired—not dead. Ask for another chance.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for "Ann Landers'" booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

What Do You Do About The Tattler, Mother?

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. T. J. U. is reacting to children's tattling in the manner we would expect. She finds it extremely disagreeable.

"Dear Mrs. Eldred:

"I would like your advice about tattling. I can't condone this in my children, but what should I do about other people's children who tattle on mine? If I scold or punish my children for what I am told they have done, yet refuse to listen to them when they tell me about other children—it breeds resentment. They get frustrated, pout and have chips on their shoulders.

"But if I don't listen to other children, it would seem that I do not care what mine are doing. This would give them the impression that doing wrong is all right.

"I always scold my children for tattling and scold and punish them for wrong-doing.

"Am I treating this in the only possble way? There are many parents with this problem, I am sure, and I would appreciate a discussion of it in your column."

ANSWER

No one likes a talebearer because he or she always has the hope that the tale will bear some fruit—either punishment or a scolding or at least the mother's discomfort.

But there are two types of tales and you are not differenitating between them. Some things you should want to know. These have to do with any acts in which your children are engaged which are dangerous or immoral. But there are dozens of innocent happenings in a child's day which are well within the capacity of children to manage themselves. Children have to learn to handle their conflicts on the playground without resort to parents.

This is what you should explain to your children. Tell them you want to hear only what is important. When other children come to you, hear them out. But if the incident is one you do not need to know, suggest that you expect them to take care of this by themselves. You'll find that you'll be doing all a favor and stifle this petty tattling.

A problem with a neighbor can spoil your whole outlook and adversely affect your family. Send for Mrs. Eldred's helpful booklet, "Neighborhood Problems." Enclose 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this paper.

Gen. MacArthur Sails In Silence Past Corregidor

ABOARD THE FLAGSHIP LAPU LAPU (UPI) —General of the Army Douglas MacArthur sailed in reflective silence Friday past the fortress of Corregidor which he fled by presidential order in 1942 during the Japanese assault.

The 81-year old general came up on deck and grasped the rail of the flagship Lapu Lapu while it moved slowly past the cavernous island which guards the bay of Manila. His eyes clouded but he said nothing.

MacArthur escaped Corregidor in a U.S. Navy PT boat after the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt ordered him to abandon the rocky island to the Japanese in World War II.

A noon sun beat down on him and gave MacArthur a clear view of the now-peaceful island as he sailed past.

ENGINEER'S WIFE HURT

Bizarre Auto-Train Collision Probed

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—A woman seriously injured in a bizarre auto-train collision Wednesday may have known her husband was at the controls of the onrushing freight.

Jack N. Dillon, the train's engineer, said Friday it was normal procedure for fireman Ernest O. Howard to be operating the train when it leaves this western Virginia city.

Howard's wife, Elizabeth Webb Howard, 39, of Roanoke, was seriously injured when the train smacked into her car at a grade crossing about 4 p.m. Wednesday in nearby Salem.

She is still unconscious. Howard is in a state of shock at a second hospital.

Dillon, who returned Thursday night after completing the illfated run to Bristol, Va.-Tenn., said Howard generally takes Norfolk & Western Railway freight No. 51 from Roanoke to Glade Springs, 125 miles away.

"When we first came in sight of the crossing," said Dillon, "I saw a car stopped beside the tracks in the clear. I thought it was waiting for us to go by."

Warning lights were flashing. Dillon said the car pulled onto the tracks and stopped as the train approached.

"I yelled to Howard that a car was stopped on the tracks," Dillon said. "I think he saw it at the same time and applied the brakes right away."

He said the car began backing away as though trying to get off the tracks.

Dillon said he recognized the car as Howard's only moments before the crash.

"I think he saw that it was his car, too,' said Dillon. He wasn't sure that Howard saw the car while it was stopped beside the tracks though he "possibly could have seen it," Dillon said Howard was operating the train, estimated by Dillon to be going at 40 miles per hour, from the right-hand side and the car approached from the left.

Salem Police Chief George Eades has declined to reveal the contents of a note found in Mrs. Howard's purse. Eades said he has found two witnesses who saw Mrs. Howard sitting in a parked car beside the crossing about 15 minutes before the train arrived.

Eades said he was investigating the possibility the collision "was not an accident."

Telephone Service Halted By Strike

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Long-distance telephone service from Lima was halted Friday by a strike of telephone operators for higher pay.

Four other strikes continued: building construction workers, bus drivers, employes of a cement plant and students at the medical school in the University of San Marcos. The students want more of a voice in direction of the school. A majority of professors in the medical school have resigned in a protest against the students.

CONGRESSMAN OTTO E. Passman, of Monroe (left), informs Secretary of State Dean Rusk that he will make no commitments to the Kennedy Administration for recommendation of appropriation of this year's $4.8 billion foreign aid funds request. The two are shown in the Foreign Operations Appropriations Committee hearing room at the Capitol in Washington at the conclusion of two days of testimony on the aid program from Rusk. As chairman of the committee handling the foreign aid money bill, Congressman Passman told the Secretary of State that "intensive and detailed" hearings will be held on the requests, and that recommendations will be based "upon the facts as they are developed." He has indicated, however, that he has in mind a "minimum reduction" from the budget estimates of $1 billion. During the past six years, Congressman Passman has spearheaded efforts which have resulted in slashing about $5 billion dollars from the aid program money requests.

STANDS TO LOSE $74,000

Franklin Troubled About Road Money

WINNSBORO (Special) — Unless the Franklin Parish Police Jury agrees to distribute gravel according to the number of miles in each ward, $74,000 in state aid may be lost.

Rep. Lantz Womack told the jury he is not going to sign for state aid until he was assured of "reasonable, equitable distribution."

A. J. Riser, president of the police jury, contended that ward seven has been getting more than its share of gravel because a 1956 measurement of roads was not correct.

The jury switched from a percentage distribution method and began giving each ward the same amount of gravel in 1956.

The jury Wednesday passed a resolution requesting the state to re-clock the roads in the parish.

According to Sen. J. C. (Sonny) Gilbert, measurements taken from a map this year show that ward seven has 16 per cent of the parish roads instead of the 22 per cent listed in 1956.

Riser was critical of the $62,000 spent on improvement of slightly more than four miles of the Mauld road in ward seven.

Ward seven is the largest of the nine wards in the parish and now gets 11 per cent instead of the 22 per cent they got under the percentage basis.

Stradivarius Sells For 6,200 Pounds

LONDON (AP)—A Stardivarius violin, once bought for 375 pounds (then $1,700) in 1837 was sold at Sothebys auction Friday for 6,200 pounds ($17,360). The instrument, which had been in the family of Sir John Seale since the owner's father bought it, was considered a beautiful example of Stradivarius' best period. It was made in 1718. The purchaser was a London firm of violin dealers.

Passman To Deliver 2 Major Talks

In Monroe for a long week-end — to deliver two major addresses and confer with a citizens' committee — Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman late yesterday expressed "high hopes" for the defeat in this Congressional session of the federal aid to education proposals.

He said also that the "drastic" farm bill proposed by the Kennedy administration "almost certainly is doomed."

And he reported that he is aiming, as chairman of the committee handling the money bill, for a minimum cut of $1 billion from this year's $4.8 billion foreign aid budget request.

"The work of past years, as well as since the beginning of this session of Congress, against the various federal aid to education bills is now beginning to pay," Passman said, "an I now hopefully predict that the measures of this nature will again be defeated this year."

"DISASTROUS"

The Fifth District U.S. Representative is one of the leaders of a special Congressional group which for several years has been spearheading the fight against the federal school aid bills — which they contend would, as Passman expressed it, be "bound to result in disastrous federal controls over the education of our young people."

He said he was "highly pleased" that the administration's "dictatorial" general farm bill had been rejected by the Congressional Committees on Agriculture.

Congressman Passman has worked toward the defeat of this proposal since it was first announced.

"In all probability," he said, "this objectionable legislation will not be passed this session."

With relation to foreign aid spending, Passman said his committee would hold, as in past years, "extensive and detailed" hearings on the requests for funds.

"And my goal," he said, "will continue to be to cut as much of the fat and waste and extravagance as possible from the program."

Passman has spearheaded the fight the past six years which has resulted in the reduction of foreign aid budget requests by about $5 billion.

Congressman Passman's engagements in the district through Monday include:

1. Office conference at 10 a.m. today with West Monroe Chamber of Commerce committee.

2. Address at 8 o'clock tonight to an open Masonic meeting at Spearsville, in Union Parish.

3. Address at 11 a.m. Monday to the annual meeting of the Louisiana chapter of the National Association of Postmasters, at Monroe.

He will return to Washington Monday afternoon.

LIVE IN TENTS

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — The government reported Friday that nearly half the 500,822 registered Palestinian refugees live in tents.

It said 224,000 of the refugees have tent homes and 132,000 live in villages bordering Israel.

IN FEDERAL COURT

Railroad Takes Bankruptcy Step

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The debt-burdened New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, long a butt of commuter jokes, folded into bankruptcy Friday and asked a federal court to take over.

The court did so immediately, directing the railroad to continue to "run, manage, maintain and operate," to close its books at the end of business Friday, and open a fresh set Saturday.

The directive from U.S. Dist. Judge Robert P. Anderson, who long has been familiar with the New Haven's financial problems, mentioned no curtailment of service. The line carries 30,000 commuters a day.

New Haven President George Alpert said federal court proceedings for the railroads reorganization. Make possible continuation of service temporarily at least."

The railroad's petition for reorganization under the Federal Bankruptcy Act, less than 24 hours after its bid for a $5.5-million government loan was turned down, cited debts far exceeding its ability to repay. It said it was at least $24 million shy of being able to meet its obligations.

The New Haven's petition listed a total of $33.48 million in taxes, maturities, interest, and lines and equipment rentals as due by Jan. 1, 1962. And it said it would have available at that time only about $9.26 million.

Judge Anderson's order blocked all creditors from collecting from the railroad or attaching the New Haven's property.

He set Aug. 1 as the date for a federal court hearing at which "one or more trustees of the debtor's property" will be named.

Judge Anderson, virtually at the throttle, said his first task will be to determine "what problems the railroad has."

The possibility emerged that the New Haven might become the first major American railroad to be run by the government in peacetime. Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr. noted that the government has guaranteed more than $35 million in loans to the railroad.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures closed 5 cents a bale lower to 20 cents higher today.

Commission house buying and small trade demand extended gains to 50 cents a bale at one time. Prices gave ground partially as selling later increased.

There was a fair amount of evening up of positions by traders prior to the government's cotton acreage report on Monday.

A Memphis spot firm estimated U.S. cotton plantings this year at 16,382,000 acres, up five per cent from last year's plantings of 16,080,000 acres.

There were five July delivery notices issued at New York, but nearby July contracts held steady.

LAWMAKERS IN TOWN

Special Session Rumors Persist

BATON ROUGE (Staff Special) — Louisiana legislators called to the Capitol by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis have given new life to rumors that the governor plans to call a special session.

Numerous legislators were in Baton Rouge Friday conferring with Davis and sources said there had been a parade of lawmakers in and out of his office his week.

While speculation has it that Davis plans a special session to repeal two tidelands laws, one source offered the view that he may be contemplating a sales tax.

Davis was on television Thurs- day night issuing a plea to the people to support his administration during the state's financial strife.

However, he did not make any mention of a special session in his Thursday night address.

Meantime, Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion said in Baton Rouge the administration at one time was close to making a settlement with the federal government on the tidelands issue.

The Davis administration needs money from the tidelands treasury.

One source said emphatically Davis would issue a special session call "immediately."

Rumors arose last week concerning the special session but Davis at that time denied it.

IN JUVENILE SALES

Tavern Operators Will Be Charged

RAYVILLE (Special) — The operators of two Rayville taverns, where juveniles were found Wednesday night, will be charged with violating the state liquor and beer laws before two state agencies.

The juveniles ranged from 13 to 17 years old.

Check of the taverns was the latest move by the state to stop, or to hold to a minimum, the number of violations involving juveniles and intoxicating beverages.

McCurry, who owns and operates the Right Spot Bar, Scott Street, Rayville, was told he would be charged with allowing the juveniles, 12 and 13 years old, to hang around the tavern.

The Negro woman, operator of the Honeydripper Lunch Room, Center Street, will be charged for having three juveniles in the tavern. One of the juveniles, a 13-year-old girl, was serving drinks to the customers, W. A. Haywood, investigator for the ABC board, said.

drinks to the customers, W. A. Haywood, investigator for the ABC board, said.

Haywood and Edwards, E. Tonore, investigator for the Department of Revenue, led the check on the taverns, along with several members of both departments who had come to northeast Louisiana to assist.

The two stressed that a check will continue throughout the area, and that proper action will be taken against persons caught violating the liquor and beer statutes.

FCC Delays Start Of Pay Television

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission Friday delayed until next year the start of a pay-TV demonstration service in Hartford, Conn.

At the request of RKO Phonevision Co., which will put on the programs, the FCC authorized a postponement from Aug. 23 of this year to July 1, 1962.

The commission said the company reported it needed additional time for the production and delivery of equipment required for paid broadcasts.

The trial broadcasts are to be carried for a three-year peiod over Hartford station WHCT.

The proposed test is being challenged in the U. S. District Court here by the Connecticut Committee Against Pay TV and motion picture interests in the area.

GI Home Loans Bill Is Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy signed a bill Friday that will channel up to $1.050 billion into home loans for ex-servicemen over the next six years.

In addition, the new law postpones the termination of the GI housing program which previously had been scheduled to end July 25, 1962, for World War II veterans. Under the new law, most World War II veterans would get an extra 18 to 30 months, depending on their length of service.

Kennedy did not request the new legislation. One immediate effect is to add $350 million to his anticipated budget deficit for the current fiscal year which began last Saturday.

Hoffa Wins Reelection For 5 Years

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Cheering delegates Friday reelected James R. Hoffa—characterized as a man "with guts"—president of the giant Teamsters union for another five years.

The diminutive labor leader pledged he would seek the world's highest pay and benefits for his 1.7-million member truck union.

Hoffa won reelection in a smashing convention victory over Milton J. Liss of Newark, N.J., who was backed by only 15 of the 1,875 delegates at the Teamsters' convention.

Five delegates abstained and the rest supported Hoffa.

Liss, who pulled out of the race at the halfway point in the balloting, said his defeat should dispel any doubts that the nation's largest union wants Hoffa as its leader.

In an acceptance speech, the 48-year-old Detroiter warned his enemies and the employers that the Teamsters would deal fairly in negotiations but were determined to achieve unmatched wages and working conditions.

Hoffa, who won a $25,000 pay raise that makes him the highest paid U.S. labor leader at $75,000-a-year, showed his scorn for corruption charges leveled against him by Senate probers and federal prosecutors.

"Sticks an stones may break my bones but words are only yesterday's whisper," he said in a variation of the familiar nursery rhyme. His supporters roared their agreement.

Influence Of Indians Will Be Traced In Talk

CROSSETT (Special) — Dan Printup, of Memphis, Tenn., will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Southeast Arkansas Archeological Society Tuesday night at 7:30, in the Municipal, Building here.

Printup, a commercial photographer and amateur archeologist-geologist, will show color slides of the excavation work at the Lawhorn aboriginal site near Monette, Ark. In addition, he will present a program on the introduction to the prehistoric Indians of the Mississippi Valley. This will include a map showing the primitive man's probable route into this continent and, by means of color slides of artifacts, show the changes from Paleo through Archaic and Woodland to the Mississippian Culture.

Guests are welcome to the meeting, it was reported.
